State Panel Would 'Free' Truants, Runaways

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Juveniles aged 16 or younger could leave home or drop out of school without being held by authorities under a proposal being recommended to the state legislature. After hearing nearly two hours of speeches by people opposing the idea, the Michigan Juvenile Justice Services Commission voted 7-4 Monday to recommend that laws against young truants and runaways be abolished. The idea has been bitterly opposed by concerned judges and parents. Democratic Rep. Paul Rosenbaum of Battle Creek, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has vowed to block the bill and not let it out of his committee.

The commission has been studying the treatment of juveniles for 18 months, using a $1.5 million allocation in state funds. Its recommendation means the only way a truant or runaway could be held in custody by police or juvenile court judges is if the child voluntarily requests official assistance to escape an unhappy situation. The current law states that a runaway or truant can be picked up and detained for "deserting his (or her) home without sufficient cause, or being repeatedly disobedient to the reasonable and lawful commands of his parents, guardians or other custodians; or for willfully and repeatedly absenting himself from school, or repeatedly violating the rules and regulations of the school."

The commission's majority said runaways and truants have problems that should be handled in a voluntary manner by the children and public service agencies to avoid courtroom appearances and the stigma of juvenile delinquency. Shelters should be opened to house these youths, the commission said. Police might transport a willing runaway or truant there, but the child wouldn't be obligated to go along. "We don't think a child should be sent to court for something which isn't a crime when committed by an adult," said Commission Chairman William J. Phelps, director of state juvenile justice services.

Opponents say the law would create chaos in the state's school system. One of the opponents of the commission's decision was Odell Hazziez, a Detroit teacher. "I know many kids who would not be in school if they didn't have to be there," she said. A spokesman for a group called Concerned Citizens of Equal Justice said the fight against the recommendation would be taken to Gov. William Milliken, who appointed the commission, and the legislature.

Savage Rain Swamps Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Torrential rains swelled creeks and streams into raging flood waters during the night, leaving at least eight persons dead and hundreds stranded or homeless as cars and mobile homes swirled through the flooded streets of Kansas City. A gas explosion ripped through three flooded buildings on the west side of Country Club Plaza, which is one of the nation's oldest shopping centers. No injuries were reported from the blast. The plaza was heavily damaged by flooding. Authorities said some of the creeks, nameless because they were so tame, rose as high as 23 feet during the night and flooded stores and streets with four to five feet of water.

More than 150 private boats were pressed into service to rescue persons stranded in their flooded homes and cars.

In the rural areas north of Kansas City, farmers reported that their fields, parched by drought until midsummer, were filled with three to four feet of water in the savage downpour. Country Club Plaza was one of the hardest hit areas of the city.

The Plaza III Restaurant was flooded with five feet of water within 14 minutes and witnesses said cars in a basement garage were floating near the ceiling. One body was found in a tree near the restaurant and others located in nearby partly submerged cars.

"There were two Cadillacs parked here and all of the sudden they just floated down the street," said Mike Collard, a cook at the Plaza III.

In the suburb of Leawood, Kan., police discovered the bodies of a middle-aged man and a young child in a late-model Mercedes. The car was on its side snagged against a tree.

Although the intensity of the storm had subsided somewhat by this morning, light rains were falling.

The National Weather Service said Monday was Kansas City's wettest day since the bureau began keeping records in 1899.

Widespread telephone and power outages were reported.

A spokesman for Kansas City Power & Light Co., said service to more than 25,000 customers had been knocked out by the flooding and high winds, and one substation was under water. Police said there were some thefts of merchandise that washed into the streets.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage, but it was extensive. Many store windows at the plaza were smashed by the weight of the water pushing against them. The inventory in many stores was destroyed as the water neared a depth of six feet.

At one department store the water had unraveled bolts of cloth leaving twisted strands of brightly colored fabric lying in the mud along the sidewalk.

Defense Based On TV Crime 'Intoxification'

By RICK SPRATLING
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — A defense attorney hopes to use a defense of "television intoxication" to prove that a 15-year-old boy charged with shooting an elderly woman to death was addicted to television crime shows. Principals to the case say attorney Ellis Rubin could break new legal ground with such a defense in the Sept. 28 trial of Ronald Zamora.

"Without the influence of television ... there would not have been any crime," Rubin argued at a pretrial conference Monday.

He claims Zamora's constant exposure to TV crime shows such as "Kojak" and "Police Woman" and a television film depicting the Charles Manson mass murders was responsible for "diseasing his mind and impairing his behavioral controls."

Rubin has often taken cases that attract publicity. He helped Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt win parole, and he has filed his own suit claiming Miami's controversial homosexual rights law was unconstitutional.

Zamora and Darrell Agrella, 14, are accused of breaking into the Miami Beach home of Ethel Haggart, 83, on June 4 and shooting her to death with Mrs. Haggart's own gun and stealing $415 and her car. They are to be tried separately as adults. Agrella's trial is set for Nov. 7.

Rubin disclosed in earlier court briefs that he would show Zamora "became intoxicated with the TV dramas and lived them as if they were his own life."

"When his parents would come home from work they would find him on the floor watching TV," Rubin said recently. "He would even skip school occasionally to go home and watch afternoon television shows."

"His mother would hear a noise in the middle of the night and find it was her son watching television."

Rubin said that the parents had disciplined the boy for watching so much television but that he had defied them. A week before the killing, they sent him to a psychologist, Rubin said.

The attorney quoted a psychiatric report he said was done for the prosecution that found Zamora consumed by television programs, "as though he were to a certain extent living some of those experiences in reality. At times he would almost feel he was the character who played the 'heavy' role," Rubin quoted the report as saying.

Campaigner Gets Down To Basics

DETROIT (AP) — Cindy Darrah got down to basics in her campaign for to win a seat on the Detroit City Council in today's election.

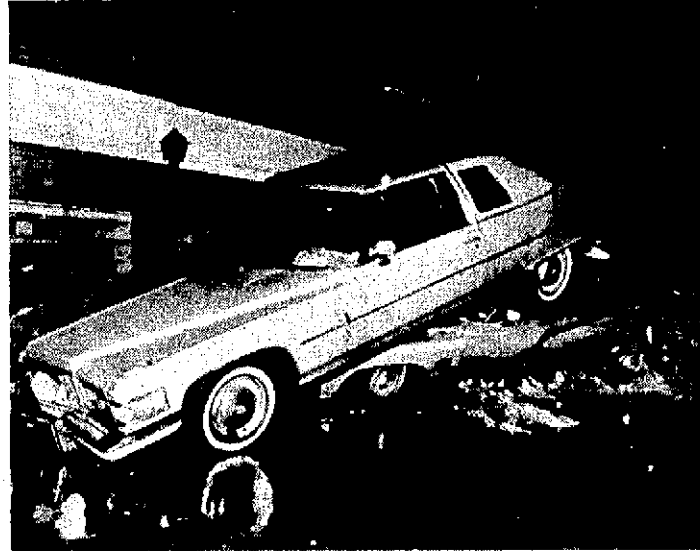

Miss Darrah, 33, on Monday tried to float on a door from a demolished house across the Detroit River in Windsor, Ont.

She wore only her hand-printed campaign buttons — and those washed off.

Detroit police officers in a rescue boat plucked the nude and shivering Miss Darrah from the river.

Police were so impressed by the unusual campaign tactic Monday that they sent Miss Darrah to Detroit General Hospital for a psychiatric evaluation.

Miss Darrah was undaunted. "If I did everything normal, I would have no chance to get elected," she said.

DREAMBOATS PILE UP: These cars were among hundreds caught in devastating flood waters that swept Kansas City area Monday night. This scene is on the Country Club Plaza, just south of downtown area. Bell Must Pay For Suicide Of Executive

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Saying that a jury's $3 million dollar slander decision against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was "based more on emotion than anything else," company officials have ordered their lawyers to appeal immediately. The state court jury voted 102 Monday to order awards of $1.5 million each for fired Bell executive James H. Ashley and the family of T.O. Gravitt, a former company official who committed suicide. Gravitt left a widow, Oleta Gravitt Dixon. The verdict was reached by the smallest majority allowed under Texas civil law.

The panel also cleared Bell co-defendant American Telephone and Telegraph Corp. of any wrongdoing.

In the complicated 35-part verdict in the nearly three-year-old suit, the jury agreed with the plaintiffs that the company had slandered them during its 1974 internal investigation of corporate practices.

The jury found that slander occurred when Bell investigators asked employees about the sexual conduct and outside financial dealings of Ashley and Gravitt.

Southwestern Bell official C.L. Todd said in a statement that the company was "disappointed in the jury's decision, simply because we don't feel it was based on any preponderance of evidence."

Todd said Bell lawyers this week will ask the judge who presided over the four-week trial, Peter Michael Curry, to overturn the verdict.

"If turned down, we will appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals and if necessary to the Texas Supreme Court and even to the U.S. Supreme Court if a constitutional question is involved," Todd said.

Gravitt was making $80,000 annually as the top Bell executive in Texas when he committed suicide at his Dallas home Oct. 17, 1974.

A suicide note left by Gravitt said in part, "Watergate is a great compared to the Bell System."

"The jury found that slander, resulting from the probe, was a 'proximate cause' of insanity that led Gravitt to kill himself."

At the same time, however, the jury found that Gravitt defrauded the telephone company of $1.77 by filing false expense vouchers as alleged by Bell in a counterclaim in the suit.

The plaintiffs originally had sought $20 million in the suit, filed Nov. 15, 1974.

Ashley, who has turned to real estate since losing his $55,000-a-year telephone company job in San Antonio, said the verdict "renews my faith in the judicial system."

Carter Now Facing Specter Of 'Coverup' On Lance

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is being asked to find out if there was a coverup of Bert Lance's financial problems before President Carter named the former Georgia banker to head the Office of Management and Budget.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., raising the question of a coverup Monday, said he wants to call the President's former ethics adviser, John L. Moore, to testify at the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee hearings into Lance's financial affairs.

After hearing testimony from

Robert Bloom, who was acting comptroller of the currency at the time Lance was nominated for the budget post, Percy said:

"There are all the elements, it would appear from the testimony, of a coverup."

Lance, meanwhile, denied he has any intention of resigning after he defends himself before the Senate committee on Thursday.

"That's absolutely incorrect," Lance told reporters this morning as he headed for work and a session later in the day with President Carter. "I'm going to keep on doing the job at the Office of Management and Budget."

The Senate panel, holding hearings on Lance's financial affairs, scheduled testimony today from Donald L. Tarleton, the Atlanta regional administrator for the comptroller of the currency.

Tarleton removed restrictions placed by federal examiners on the Calhoun (Ga.) First National Bank, which Lance headed as chairman of the board, two days before Carter announced Lance's selection as budget chief.

But in prepared testimony, Tarleton said Lance did not ask him to lift the restrictions. He said they were lifted "because the bank had returned to sound operating procedures and for no other reasons."

Lance planned a meeting with Carter at the White House today. Press Secretary Jody Powell said it was a normal weekly get-together and he didn't know whether increasing demands for Lance's resignation would be discussed.

Moore, now chairman of the U.S. Export-Import Bank, was special counsel on ethics and conflicts of interest for the transition group that helped set up the Carter administration. Moore took part in a telephone conversation with Lance, Carter

Israel Offers A Peace Proposal

Moshe Dayan, the Israeli defense minister, is expected to deliver to President Carter in a few days the first written plan to bring peace to the troubled Mideast.

Prepared under the direction of Prime Minister Begin and approved by his cabinet, the text and a cover letter which has to be read into the total proposal are designed, Begin stated at a press conference, to end the state of war between Israel and her neighbors, extend diplomatic ties and establish open borders.

Dayan's arrival at Washington precedes the UN's General Assembly opening a new session on September 20th.

Until Begin's announcement came out over the weekend, reporters specializing in covering UN activities were predicting that while this organization of 147 countries diverging sharply on ideological, political and economic lines can be expected to display considerable controversy the temper tantrums thrown in the past might not arise again.

This optimism has faded somewhat. Until the treaty and its cover letter are made public even the White House can only speculate as to their content and, more importantly, the inferences to be drawn from the text.

Information available at this time puts the Begin Peace formula in this general outline.

Israel will withdraw its garrisons from Arab West Bank cities, but retain military control along the Jordan river, her primary water source.

Civilian administration over 700,000 Arabs living in the West Bank would be divided between Jordan, Israel and Palestinians disassociated from the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

If the information is correct, it means Begin has no thought of total withdrawal from Arab lands seized in the 1967 war and intends to pursue Jewish settlement in that territory.

The latter is opposed by the Carter Administration which is on record as describing the creation of more settlements as an obstacle to peace.

Reception from the Arab community is fairly predictable.

The PLO has made it plain. It will never accept a disarmed state of existence for all Palestinians and unless the Arab governments immediately affected by the 1967 land seizure change direction, the Begin proposal will be no more than a conversation.

Only Egypt and Saudi Arabia which have posted a moderate attitude toward Israel can be counted upon to say a kind word for the proposal.

If the chance for acceptance is so dim, the question is why would Begin make the gesture.

One answer is the psychological advantage to being the first to put down in black and white what a party is willing to do. Since Israel's founding by the UN in 1947, both sides to the Mideast dispute have shouted against one another from their capital cities.

A more basic answer may be the thought among Begin's followers that Israel needs a surcease from the belligerency at her borders.

Maintaining the country as an armed camp is draining the tiny nation's resources faster than they can be generated.

Time now appears to be on the side of the Arab countries.

Unlike the UN, Israel can not afford the luxury of endless, futile rhetoric. Neither does she benefit from others paying her way as does the UN.

From a distance it looks as if Begin would not have offered the limited concessions supposedly contained in his proposal unless convinced that something has to give in order to maintain his country as a viable entity.

Look Who's Going To Try Plain Speaking!

Who would have thought that one day the government, the legal profession and big business — to name only three leading offenders — would be saying we've got to make the written word understandable again. Not only is this being said in high places, but occasionally something is actually being done to strip away the jargon, the legalese and the pedantic gibberish that have abused the English language almost beyond recognition. The latest development in the federal government is an order by the Food and Drug Administration. Starting Wednesday, Sept. 21, prescription drugs containing the female hormones estrogen and progestin must bear labels clearly stating the possibility of harmful side effects, including cancer in estrogen's case.

This order is in line with President Carter's promise last February that federal regulations would be written in "plain English for a change." It's obviously an uphill battle, but a beginning is being made here and there. The pressure for plain warnings and rules for consumers comes not just from the President but also from the consumers themselves. Consumerism underlies a new law in New York State, effective next June, requiring loan agreements, apartment leases and other consumer contracts to be written in "nontechnical language" — in "words with common and everyday meanings."

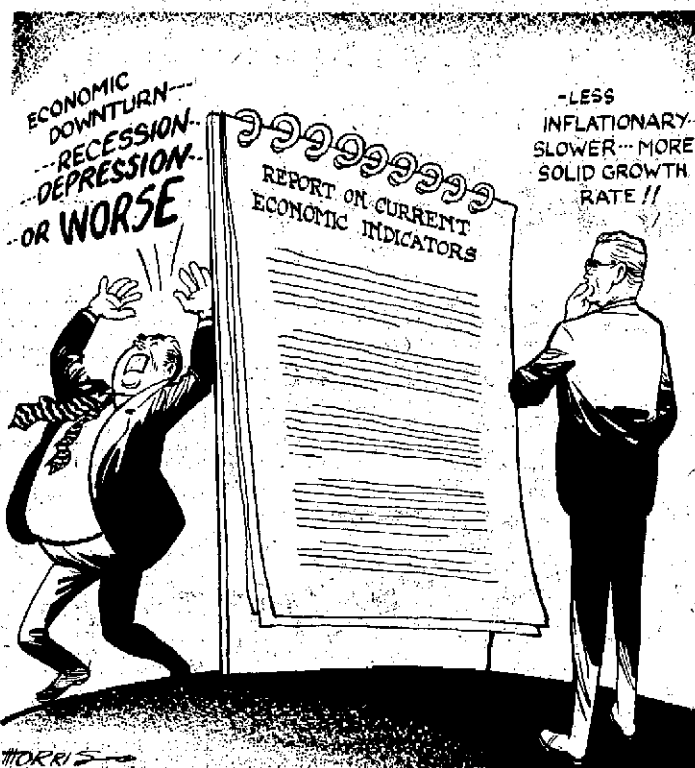

Even the legal profession, so famous for its ability to make fifty words do the work of one, has engaged in self-criticism. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has voiced his irritation over bulky legal briefs submitted to the Supreme Court and has been known to scold offending attorneys. Irving S. Kaufman, chief judge of the Second Circuit Court of Appeals (New York), believes "inadequate or confusing communication between the judiciary and the populace is... a principal cause of modern discontent with our legal system."

As heartening as the plain-language movement may be, it creates problems. The drafters of legal documents, especially, contend that a lot of fine distinctions in law are not readily reduced to a few simple statements. And a number of corporations, according to Business Week magazine, are finding they must send their executives back to school to learn to write simply and clearly. But not to an academic environment, mind you. Says Albert Joseph, president of the Industrial Writing Institute: "Those with Ph.D.'s may be the worst of all."

HE THINKS MOST LIKE INFLATION

Editor,

Inflation means a decrease in purchasing power of money, reflected in higher prices for goods and services. Thus, it is disastrous for people on a fixed income in money.

Cost of living is always rising during inflation, if measured in money. It is stable or lower, according to a report in Readers Digest a while ago, when measured in hours of work required to earn the price of goods and services. That comparison was based on a 50-year span.

Is inflation desirable? While it is a great concern for all citizens, not all would really want it halted. Maybe scrapping cost-of-living clauses would cause no hardships, if inflation were stopped. But the thought of paying off present long-term debts in non-shrinking money will make borrowers shiver!

No longer could one expect to sell real estate, after a few years of ownership, at a substantially higher price. Neither would annual salary and wage adjustments.

(blanket increases) be justified. Only merit and productivity increases would bring rewards. Labor-management bargaining would lose the big issue of wage boosts.

Price would again be more stably related to value in the eyes of the buyer, because the inflation factor would be zero. The other factors of instability would remain: stock and commodity market fluctuations, as well as the influences of style and popularity. Also innovation would bring varying prices.

Much as we speak out against inflation and try to blame government, labor, business and other groups, it seems the majority of citizens don't really want inflation halted. They have gotten used to the life-style based on inflation. They are not about to trade their personal benefits of the system, which they know, for the promised benefits of a non-inflationary economy, which the younger generation has never known.

Guess we'll be stuck with some continuing inflation for quite a while.

'First Brother' Special Guest At King's Island

KINGS MILLS, OHIO (AP) — Guess who is to be the special guest of honor at a forthcoming "peanut olympics" at the Kings Island amusement center here.

Why it's Billy Carter, the president's brother. Bet you're surprised.

Thomas E. Kempton, director of marketing at the park, said Carter and the actor who plays the cartoon character Yogi Berra will captain the two teams taking part in the Olympics, scheduled for Oct. 14-15.

Team members and cheerleaders will be selected through radio station promotions in several cities.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

The Blue Angels are coming back to the Twin Cities area. Remembered here for their appearance at the Blossom Festival in 1961, the Blue Angels, officially known as the U.S. Navy Flight Demonstration Team, will provide a soaring kickoff for the United Community Fund campaign. The team will perform Sept. 27. The precision flying unit is well remembered in the Twin Cities for the flap it caused when the roaring, low level exhibition in 1961 drowned out Sunday morning sermons in a number of St. Joseph churches. The sky show had been scheduled for Saturday, but was held over to Sunday morning by a weather postponement.

Workmen have begun excavating for new $3,882 sidewalk the city of Columbia is laying from end of its present walk along Red Arrow highway to the high school. Last year an oversight by the city commission left the work out of the budget and parents complained when children had to walk on the busy highway.

The Pearson Construction Co. of Benton Harbor this week was granted a building permit at St. Joseph city hall to construct a National Tea Co. grocery building on the former Sauerbier property at 815 Main street, at the Price street intersection in St. Joseph. Listed amount of the construction is $70,000.

Although Benton Harbor is having some of the hottest weather of the year, and the temperature continues around the 90-degree mark, preparations for the Christmas season are already under way. Mrs. Phyllis Berglund has been arranging an exhibit of yule decorations at the headquarters of West Michigan Electric Co., 205 West Main street, a wholesale firm. And over in Paw Paw, Peter Klobucher, manager of the Van Buren County Soil Conservation nursery, is starting to fill orders from farmers for thousands of evergreens of all varieties.

GOP Outliving Its Obituary

WASHINGTON — The Republican party, which has a way of outliving its own obituary notices, appears to be recuperating rather nicely from last year's brush with extinction.

With the Aug. 27 victory of Louisiana Republican Robert Livingston, the GOP now has won three of the four special congressional elections held this year. All four seats were previously occupied by Democrats, and had been regarded as "safe" for the majority party.

Republicans have also captured 20 of 43 state legislative seats filled this year in scattered elections across the country, for a net pickup of 14 seats.

GOP professionals in Washington are both relieved and heartened by the results.

"At least it shows we're not dead," said Steven F. Stockmeyer, executive director of the National Republican Congressional Committee, which funnels financial and technical support to GOP candidates for the House.

"If we put up good candidates, run a professional campaign and stay away from ideological purity, Republicans can win elections," Stockmeyer said.

While the three new GOP congressmen elected this year in Minnesota, Washington and Louisiana are all fairly conservative, none is aligned with the doctrinaire right wingers forever trying to shape the Republican party in their own image.

Congressional GOP leaders and Republican National Chairman Bill Brock are convinced that the party's only hope for the future lies in the selection of solid, pragmatic candidates who can appeal to a broad spectrum of voters.

Ever since he took over the national chairmanship earlier this year, Brock has argued that Republican candidates can attract traditionally Democratic voters if they go after them aggressively and address issues which concern ordinary people.

Livingston, the first Republican elected to Congress from Louisiana's 1st District in 102 years, appears to have vindicated Brock's faith.

In his initial bid for the seat last November, Livingston lost by 5,000 votes to Democrat Richard Tonry. Tonry was forced to resign and has been sent to prison.

Livingston kept right on campaigning, and in the Aug. 27 special election he drew almost 50 per cent of the vote as he defeated a Democrat and an independent.

In so doing, he not only ran extremely well in blue collar neighborhoods that usually vote Democratic, he also carried 22 per cent of the black vote.

The difference can be attributed, in large measure, to the efforts of a team of black political organizers Brock retained earlier this year as part of a $225,000 GOP National Committee drive to court black voters.

The Republicans are not out of the political woods by a longshot, but the small triumphs they have achieved in this year's state legislative and congressional elections would appear to indicate that Brock and other moderates now in control of the national party are on the right track.

Canal Pact: Just A Beginning?

SANTIAGO, Chile — I sit in the Santiago apartment of a former senator from the Chilean National Party. It is difficult to make exact comparisons, but generally the National Party in Chile occupies a position in the political spectrum something like that of Gerald Ford in America: moderate conservative.

This former senator really looks like a senator from Chilean Central Casting. He is tall, white-haired, tanned, in his 60s. Impeccably dressed. He speaks perfect English and has a deeply thoughtful cast of mind. He draws easily on historical examples as we talk, some of the historical examples recounted.

Since the Carter Administration is now giving us the hard-sell on ceding the Canal to Panama and Gen. Torrijos, I ask my host what he thinks about the issue. We have all been told, of course, that opinion in Latin America is practically unanimous in giving the Canal to Panama.

In my opinion, this former Chilean senator cuts right to the heart of the issue. He says:

"The fact that this question has even been raised tells us a great deal about America. Why did America agree to negotiate about the Canal at all? There was no evident necessity to do so. Omar Torrijos is nothing but a gangster. You might as well negotiate with a gangster from Chicago. If you cannot say no to a gangster like Torrijos, whom can you say no to? Where are you going to make a stand? In South Dakota?"

He pointed out militarily and economically the U.S. is the strongest nation in the world. He compared the U.S. position with that of England in the 19th century.

"The British made the rules," he said. "You might object to some of them, but those were the rules. The British did not mind for one second if you did not like them."

He thought that the prime U.S. weakness was a desire to be liked, to be loved, around the world. "The most powerful nation is never going to be loved. It can only be respected. The Bri-ish were not loved, far from it, but they were respected. The attitudes of the U.S. are losing it respect among much weaker nations all over the world."

He recalled having a conversation with the late Adlai Stevenson back in the 1960s. Then-President Frei of Chile, a left-leaning Christian Democrat, was cozying up to the Soviet Union, increasing trade with the Soviets, exchanging cultural missions and so forth. Washington opposed all this. Stevenson asked the Chilean senator: "What can we do about Frei and his policies? What should we do?"

The senator's answer was curt: "Tell him not to."

The answer was also reasonable. At the time, the U.S. was propping up the Frei regime with various kinds of aid amounting to $1.5 billion.

He also recalled a meeting with several of the most influential U.S. senators in Washington a couple of years ago. One well-known senator, specializing in foreign policy, asked him: "What do you think American foreign policy toward Latin America ought to be?"

Reply: "Do you want the diplomatic answer, or the truth?"

"Oh, the truth please. Speak frankly."

Reply: "No. U.S. senator should ask a Latin American leader what U.S. foreign policy should be. It is the job of an American senator to set policy according to American interests."

We should not be debating this absurd negotiation with Panama. The Chilean is right. When the treaty hits the desk of a U.S. senator, he should tear it up and throw it in the circular file.

Twin City 'YM' Eyes New Site

City Editor

The Twin Cities YMCA is starting a survey to determine if gift dollars are available to build a new YMCA on 9.5 acres that are under option in Royalton township. David Bergman, executive director of the YMCA, said about 35 prominent people in north Berrien county will be contacted to get indications whether the YMCA can raise $2.5 million for construction of a 40,000-square-foot building.

The "Y" is now headquartered in Benton Harbor.

"We have no building fund now, and everything will be dependent on gifts," Bergman said.

The survey beginning today is not a solicitation. "It's a feasibility study to learn if there is enough support to start a building campaign," Bergman said.

The 55 people who are being contacted are those whose support would be necessary for a building drive, according to Bergman.

The study will be conducted by William Gill, of Ketchum, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa., a professional fund raising counsel.

Bergman said the "Y" has an option until April on the proposed site. It's on Hollywood road and owned by Nye's Orchards.

The site was selected after the "Y" interviewed community leaders asking what the institution should be doing to better serve the total community. Bergman said there were suggestions for relocation to a more central part of the YMCA's service area.

The Royalton township location is almost equidistant from downtown Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and Stevensville, Bergman said. It also would bring Berrien Springs into more "Y" activities and be accessible to Columbia and Watercherry freeways. The site is south of The Herald-Palladium's new plant being completed in St. Joseph township.

The central "Y" occupies a 51-year-old building at 233 Michigan street in downtown Benton Harbor. It contains 35,000 square feet, but only 26,000 to 28,000 are being used regularly because residency rooms have been closed.

The Young Men's Christian Association also operates branches at 1897 Britain avenue, Benton township, and 1816 West John Beers road, Stevensville.

Bergman said the "Y" board has made no decision on future use of present facilities if a successful building campaign is achieved.

Dismiss Charge Against Brown

CARL L. BROWN

An assault and battery charge was dismissed Monday in Berrien District court against Carl L. Brown, of Benton Harbor, arrested early Saturday for allegedly striking and pushing a woman whom police said Brown had dated.

Asst. Prosecutor Scott Beatty obtained a warrant Monday charging Brown with assault and battery. Beatty later moved for dismissal of the charge at request of Yvonne Watson, alleged victim of the assault.

Berrien District Judge Leo K. Cook signed the dismissal. Brown, who was freed after posting $300 bond with the arresting officers early Saturday, wasn't arraigned on the charge, Beatty said.

Brown, 38, of 661 Pavone street, is a former member of the Benton Harbor city commission and currently a candidate for the commission in the November election.

Benton township police arrested Brown about 3:30 a.m. Saturday after they reportedly saw a man strike and push Yvonne Watson, 27, of 1756 Crystal court. The incident occurred in a parking lot across from the Watson residence, police said.

Yvonne Watson, identified in the warrant as the victim of the alleged assault, submitted a written statement to the prosecutor's office Monday that said, in part: "I wish to make (sic) a statement that none of the charges filed against Mr. Carl Brown are true." Complainant was listed on the warrant as Benton township Det. Robert Shepherdson.

AMC, Union Still Talking

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The United Auto Workers and American Motors Corp. scheduled more contract talks Tuesday, saying they had spent Monday reviewing the situation in general.

AMC had offered Friday to extend the existing contract while adding a cost-of-living provision. The union has asked for a pact closer to those of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

School Bus Stop Law Sought In St. Joe

Two members of a Washington school concerned parents group last night asked the St. Joseph city commission to pass an ordinance that would require school bus drivers to halt traffic with red flashing lights when loading or unloading children in the city.

Under state law, school bus drivers do not have to use red flashing lights inside city limits unless specifically required to do so by a city ordinance. State law requires flashing lights outside corporate limits.

The request for such an ordinance in St. Joseph was made by Mrs. Barbara Willey, 1008 Court street, and Mrs. Katy Post, 1418 Niles avenue. They said they were acting on behalf of the recently formed Concerned Citizens for Washington School.

Mrs. Willey told commissioners school bus drivers in T. Joseph are not using their red flashing lights because there is no ordinance requiring it.

They showed commissioners a map pinpointing about 50 different school bus stops made each day in the city limits by St. Joseph school district buses.

They said even more stops are made if parochial and special education buses are included. Commissioner William Gillespie said he was not aware that so many school buses were operating in the city.

Commissioners instructed City Manager Gerald Heppler to meet with Mrs. Willey and Mrs. Post, review their proposal and then make a recommendation on whether the city should pass such an ordinance.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. told the ladies the ordinance would need approval at two separate meetings before it could go into effect.

Mrs. Post said she expects some auto drivers will object to the ordinance because they might have to stop for a school bus while hurrying to work, but she said it would make busting safer in the city.

In other areas, the commission voted to proceed with development of a contoured park on the now vacant 2½-acre Milton junior high school site.

The vote will allow a contractor to perform the contouring work at private expense and will allow city workers to plant grass seed this fall once the contouring is completed.

Mrs. John Paul Taylor, president of the Indian Hills garden club, told commissioners her club was raising the money to pay a private contractor who had volunteered to do the contour work at cost. She did not name the contractor. City Manager Gerald Heppler said later the contractor is John G. Yerlington.

Mrs. Taylor said the work would be paid from $1,000 donations. She said the club had already collected $6,000 and expected more. Each donor will be given "park patron" status and his name will be engraved on a plaque to be built in the park. Mrs. Taylor said that by getting the contouring and planting done in the fall, the park will be ready for planting trees and building other amenities in the spring.

The site is owned by the Whirlpool Corp., which purchased it for $50,000 from the St. Joseph school district. It is being leased to the city for 10 years at $1 a year.

The garden club is working to develop the site into a park as one of its projects.

The commission approved a taxicab fare change that will allow the Twin City Motor Transit Co. to charge senior citizens 82¢ and over $1 for a taxi ride anywhere within the city.

The fare can be paid with $1 discount coupons issued to senior citizens by the city, according to Heppler. The fare change was requested by Joseph Martin, owner of the firm and will run four months on a trial basis.

Carolyn Crowner, 323 Lake street, read a statement on behalf of the St. Joseph Beach Area Association asking the city commission to continue the present zoning in the Silver Beach area.

"The statement was in response to a proposed new zoning ordinance that would rezone the entire Silver Beach area north of Park street into a water recreational district. Carolyn Crowner is president of the beach association.

"The proposed designation is a vaguely drawn concept leaving the future of our property largely to an imagined fate," she said. "The proposal to date has been accompanied by no specific concrete definition on any plans implied by such zoning."

If there is no plan for development of the water recreational district, then no justification exists for changing the present zoning, she said.

City commissioners voted to reconsider the proposed new zoning ordinance Oct. 10. The planning commission is scheduled to take action on several recommended changes to the ordinance at its next meeting Oct. 6.

A proposed $281,000 reconstruction project on Lake street, read a statement on behalf of the city.

Heppler said he has instructed the engineering firm of Conser & Townsend to prepare detailed construction plans for the project which will include widening the Main street intersection.

The instructions were given after the city received approval from the federal highway administration for preliminary project plans.

Heppler said engineers will meet with a committee of city officials and two representatives of the Lake Bluff Preservation Association before the detailed construction plans are completed.

The association has opposed much of the work called for in the project.

The commission approved a special use permit that will allow operation of a retail florist shop in a building owned by Edd Gerring at 719 Gard avenue. The building — which is now being remodeled — is zoned single-family.

Approval of the special use permit was recommended by the planning commission.

The commission approved a tag day sale Sept. 23 and 24 for the Benton Harbor recreation program to raise money for Racket football.

The commission scheduled its next meeting for Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

St. Joe's General Fund Balance Now $345,000

The city of St. Joseph general operating fund took in $218,589 more than was spent during the 1976-77 fiscal year which ended June 30, according to an annual audit presented to city commissioners last night.

The surplus from last year plus a fund balance of $126,965 from the previous year brought the general fund balance to a total of $345,504 as of June 30, the audit showed.

Total general fund expenditures were $3,779,903, an amount $26,871 greater than was budgeted.

Total revenues were $3,998,502. That was $245,470 more than was anticipated in the budget, according to the audit.

The audit showed that $103,444 in revenue came from federal anti-recession and employment grants that had not been budgeted.

The audit was presented by Charles A. Hoffman, a partner in the certified public accounting firm of Iereman, Johnson &

Hoffman, Ann Arbor.

He told commissioners the city is in excellent financial condition and carries no general obligation debt against the property tax roll.

The audit showed the city's debt service fund was closed out with the payment of $37,078 on 1970 general obligation bonds issued for the Park street viaduct.

The city's water system remains in debt for about $4.7 million to be retired over the next 27 years, according to the audit, but that is to be repaid from water department revenues.

Hoffman said expenditures were greater than budgeted last year because the city spent about $27,000 on construction projects that were not budgeted. The projects included street sign replacement and sidewalk and sewer construction.

Hoffman said a separate audit of the water supply system showed a healthy cash flow and indicated that it would be at least two years before the city would have to consider increasing water rates.

The water supply system serves Lincoln and St. Joseph townships and the Villages of Shoreham and Stevensville in addition to the city.

The water audit showed a net income last year of $6,565. A year earlier, net income was $84,572.

Hoffman said the net income was partially reduced by a depreciation write-off of $77,806.

Total water sales last year were $885,453 compared to $814,215 the previous year.

Hoffman said auditors found the city's retirement fund to be "in good shape and solvent." He said the First National Bank of Chicago had done an excellent job in handling the fund's invested securities.

Interest earned on investments totaled $262,079, and the fund balance at the end of the year was $3,801,545. During the year, the fund disbursed a total of $185,078 including $158,789 to 16 retired employees.

100th Birthday Is Thursday

Bry-Fern Resident

By ELLEN BAILEY
Berrien Springs Correspondent

BERRIEN CENTER — Hard work is the key to a long life, but one of the advantages of being a centenarian is being waited on, according to Mrs. Frances Treder, who will celebrate her 100th birthday here Thursday, Sept. 15.

With her husband, Charles, Mrs. Treder operated a farm near Coloma for 12 years before moving to Benton Harbor, where Treder was employed at Superior Steel company. During World War II, already a senior citizen, Mrs. Treder worked at the Benton Harbor Tent and Awning company.

After her husband's death in 1961, Mrs. Treder maintained her own home in Benton Harbor until two years ago when she moved into Bry-Fern Rest home, Berrien Center. The couple had no children.

Although she needs a walking aid, Mrs. Treder has her own teeth and good eyesight. In fact, she still enjoys making quilts, which she says has been a lifetime occupation. She gave up quilting only a year ago, because it strained her eyes.

Mrs. Treder, the youngest of 11 children, was born in Bainbridge township, Sept. 15, 1877, the daughter of Henry and Augusta Gerling. Mrs. Treder attended the former Cribbs school, south of Waterford. She was married to Charles Treder, April 4, 1904.

She "didn't pay much attention" to the Spanish American War and World War I, Mrs. Treder says, but adds that she voted regularly from the time women were granted the franchise in 1920, until 1976, when she was no longer able to get to the polls.

Mrs. Treder plans to celebrate her birthday at Bry-Fern with cake and ice cream for residents and staff, and for friends and 25 relatives whom she expects to come from out of town.

To anyone seeking to reach the age of 100, Mrs. Treder advises, "Keep Busy."

Mrs. Treder has received a birthday card from President Carter.

900 Dream Songs

There are over 900 songs with the words "dream" or "sleep" in the title, according to a Chicago mattress company.

Of course, there are the old favorites, including Did You Ever See A Dream Walking?, All I Do Is Dream Of You, Sleepy Time Gal, Sleepy Lagoon and just plain Dream.

But there are also some you probably never heard of, such as Dog Of My Dreams, Bloop Bleep I Can't Sleep, and The Horse With The Dreamy Eyes.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Heat's On Over Heirlooms

Dear Ann Landers: I haven't bothered you since my son went into a coma because his girl wouldn't marry him. Well, she changed her mind and now they have three children and a lovely home in Maryland.

It's my daughter I need shoring up with at this point. Julia eloped (at 17) with a hillbilly from Trash Valley, Tennessee. They had a son and were divorced. The following year, to keep him from going to Korea, they remarried — and had another child. It didn't work and they were divorced again. "Trash Valley" dropped out of sight for six years. Julia brought up the two children very nicely with no help.

Two months ago, the Double Ex appears out of nowhere and they fell in love again. They plan to be married next month — for the third time.

The problem: I gave Julia some lovely family heirlooms. When I heard she was going to marry Trash Valley for the third time, I asked her to return them. She dumped everything on my doorstep and is quite bitter about my "lousy attitude." I did mean for the heirlooms to be hers, but I did not intend for them to end up in a cabin on Tobacco Road. Am I wrong? — B.P.D.

Dear B.P.D.: Heirlooms are supposed to go wherever the owner takes them. When you gave them to Julia they became her property. Sorry about Trash Valley, but fair is fair.

Letter's Better

Dear Ann Landers: I was disturbed by the advice you gave the woman who complained about the personal hygiene of one of her co-workers. You suggested, without realizing it, a poison pen letter.

Some people have an odor that cannot be corrected with "a coat of paint." Their feelings would be terribly hurt by an anonymous letter. Anyone who cares enough to want to help people should have the courage and decency to put a signature on any letter he writes, or better yet, he should say something directly but gently. At least the exchange would be human-to-human, not an anonymous hate letter. — H.M.J.L., a D.D.S., Winnetka

Dear D.D.S.: As a D.D.S., you should know that perspiration on a clean body has no odor. It's when the bacteria forms that the problem begins. If a person bathes or showers before work and wears fresh undergarments he will not have "a stench" that is "unbearable," as the writer described it. In special cases, where a physical problem exists, a little extra care at lunch time would help a lot.

Your notion that a caring person should be able to say something "directly and gently" falls short of realism. Most people, when they write, tell me they just can't do it. So the next best thing is a carefully worded message — unsigned, which I don't consider a poison-pen letter in any sense of the word in

Ring Wrangle

Dear Ann: I lost my husband

five years ago after 18 years of a happy marriage. In 1975 I started to see a fine man whose wife died three years before.

I do not wear my wedding band but he insists on wearing his. I told him this is not fair to his wife or my husband. Do you agree with me, Ann? — Unsettled In The West

Dear Unsettled: I do not. Since his wife and your husband are no longer living I don't see where they fit into the picture. My advice is cool it, dear. When he gets ready to put a ring on your finger he will undoubtedly take his off.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11993, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

LINCOLN TOWNSHIP LIBRARY

Features Nature Display

Lincoln township library currently has a display sponsored by three area nature centers: Fernwood, 1720 Range Line road, Niles; Saret, 2300 Benton Center road, Benton Harbor; and Love Creek, Huckleberry road, Berrien Springs.

Fernwood, directed by Stan Reikmann, is the oldest center and sponsors educational opportunities including nature related crafts.

Saret, directed by Charles Nielson, is basically a wildlife sanctuary with nature-oriented classes that identify Michigan birds and nature photography.

Love Creek, directed by Chuck Barnes, was opened in 1976 and is a wildlife preserve which combines natural development common to Berrien county such as dry meadow, wet meadow, marsh and wet forest.

The display will be at the library through Friday, Sept. 16.

The Lincoln township library will sponsor a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training session Thursday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. in the new Lincoln township hall. Preregistration must be completed by Wednesday, Sept. 14, for this class which will be conducted by the National Red Cross. Persons may register by telephoning the library.

The library will sponsor a children's film on the second Wednesday and Thursday of each month beginning Sept. 14 and 15. The same film will be shown from 4 to 4:30 p.m. on both nights. The films are designed for the four to eleven age group.

Films to be shown include "Ferdinand the Bull," "The Little House" and "Goliath the II."

The adult film scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 22, from 7 to 8 p.m. is "In Search of the Bowhead Whale." The 70-ton mammal was filmed off the coast of northern Canada and Alaska.

The film, "The Band Director," to be shown Saturday, Sept. 24, at 1 p.m., features the University of Michigan marching band during rehearsals and special appearances.

An energy seminar will be conducted at the library Wednesday, Sept. 28, from 7 to 8 p.m. A representative of indiana and Michigan Electric Company will provide a program emphasizing the wise use of electrical energy. An informal discussion will follow.

The Dial-A-Story program, which began May 18 at the library, has had more than 300 callers per day with 1,200 calls per day receiving a busy signal. A grant from the Kellough Foundation helped to pay for the installation. Three more machines are needed to meet the demand. Children dial a special number and hear one of the favorite folk stories.

Sandy DuVall of Hartford is a new staff member at the library. She attended Southwestern Michigan college.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had trouble with diverticulosis since 1978. I have made up my mind that I am going to try the bran treatment. You told a lady you were going to send her two of The Health Letters on this problem, number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation and 5-6, Diverticulosis. Can you send me those two issues, too?

I am on a low residue diet, but can't use wax beans or tomato puree because they cause gas. I have a good bowel habit as I take a pill after each meal, but I am thinking of cutting this down as I think they are too strong.

DEAR READER — Most people can add bulk to their diet without any special instructions. Just start eating whole wheat bread instead of bread made with white flour, use a bowl of cereal a day that contains bran, either Bran Buds or 40 per cent Bran Flakes, or any other bran cereal.

Some people may find that causes too much gas. They will need to start gradually and perhaps just switch bread first and then gradually add the bran cereals. You should expect some gas problems for at least three weeks after switching to bran.

I am sending the two issues of The Health Letters, numbers 2-1 and 5-6, that you asked for. Others who want these can send 50 cents for each issue, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. The issue on Irritable or Spastic Colon also includes information on bowel training. There is more to it than just eating bran.

I am not sure what kind of pill you are taking three times a day. If it is a chemical laxative, that is not a good idea. Chemical laxatives are very harsh on the colon and result in a laxative habit.

Individuals who must use a laxative would be better off using a simple bulk expander. Metamucil is a good example. Some people who have too much gas or have other problems that make using bran difficult may tolerate bulk substances such as Metamucil. These inert substances simply expand with moisture and form a gel-like substance. The bulk improves colon function in some just as the bulk from cereal fiber does.

Studies that show whether inert bulk laxatives or cereal fiber are better, are hard to come by. There doesn't seem to be all that much difference. The theory is based on the idea that the tubular colon is lined with muscles. These must contract rhythmically to move the food residue along. If there is not enough bulk in the diet the muscular tube overcontracts, causing spasm. The spasm leads to constipation, irritable or spastic colon and pain. When the bulk that you would get if you ate a natural diet with unrefined cereals is added to the diet, many people develop normal bowel function again.

Diverticulosis (pockets of the colon) are thought by many to be the result of a spastic colon. Increasing the bulk in the diet often helps these people. Since cereal fiber as in bran may irritate the stomach of a person with ulcers, they are sometimes better off using Metamucil. This four-heart bid makes it easy for North to go into Blackwood and to bid seven spades, when South shows two aces.

The grand slam makes easily but there is a best way to play it. At trick two South comes to his hand with a trump. Then he ruffs a club high, comes to his hand with a second trump, ruffs his last low club and claims.

BH Mayor Is Embarrassed By Unkempt Park

The Benton Harbor city commission last night heard complaints from Mayor Joel Patterson about the condition of a small city park and from Maurice Bishop that landlords are getting stuck with tenants' water bills.

Patterson criticized maintenance of the park just north of Mercy hospital, saying the job was "shabby" and left him "embarrassed."

Patterson said weeds were still standing in part of the park because it was not mowed. The park is bordered by Empire, Pipestone and Union streets.

City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said he didn't know whether the park had been mowed by regular public works employees or by a group of young people in a cleanup program funded by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Allegan Barn Is Guttled

MOLINE -- Fire early today caused an estimated $50,000 damage to a pole barn at the Silver Dollar horse ranch just north of this northeastern Allegan county community, state police from Wayland said.

Cause of the 2:40 a.m. blaze is under investigation but it is believed the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, troopers said. Owner of the horse ranch, Sam Marsiglia, estimated the damage which gutted the 75 by 150-foot barn and destroyed feed, hay, straw and an older tractor inside. The ranch is located on 146th avenue near 12th street.

Troopers said the blaze was reported by several motorists using CB radios traveling on US-131. Troopers said the barn was within site of the highway. Firemen from Moline and Wayland fought the blaze for 2½ to 3 hours.

No one was injured in the blaze and no horses were injured or destroyed, troopers said.

Mayor Joel Patterson also directed Farmer to determine how many water shutoffs have occurred during the past year.

Farmer said the city hopes to speed up the process of finding people who are delinquent in paying water bills by increasing the number of people reading water meters. He said the city recently hired five people with federal CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) funds to read meters.

In other action, the commission approved a $5,490 contract with Ideal Plumbing Co., Benton Harbor, for repair of the boiler at the public works building.

STUDENTS STAYING AT WASHINGTON SJ School Transfers Trimmed

A decision last month by the St. Joseph board of education to transfer 43 fourth, fifth and sixth graders out of Washington elementary school was partially reversed last night.

The board unanimously agreed that 13 fifth and 16 sixth graders to have been transferred will remain at Washington school this year. Transfers of 14 fourth graders, approved last month, have been completed, it was reported.

Tumble Breaks Boy's Arm

DOWAGIAC -- Christopher Ashby, 5, rural Dowagiac, was hospitalized yesterday after he fell out of the passenger side of a pickup truck being backed from the driveway of his home by his mother.

According to Cass county sheriff's deputies, the truck was being operated by Mrs. Ellen Ashby, route 5, Atwood road. The accident occurred about 1:20 p.m.

Christopher was reported in stable condition today at Pawling hospital, Niles. He sustained a broken arm and cuts to the head, deputies said. Deputies said the boy fell when the door of the vehicle came open. No ticket were issued, deputies reported.

Supt. Burton Aldrich said enrollment projections last spring appear to be accurate, but the location of students is somewhat of a surprise.

While Washington school may now have two small fifth and sixth grade sections, classes in the same grades proved larger than anticipated in other elementary schools. This makes transfers from Washington to any other school impractical, Aldrich said.

He reported that as of yesterday, the district had 3,897 students in kindergarten through 12th grade -- 152 fewer than enrolled last year. Official enrollment will be taken Sept. 30.

Originally, the transfers from Washington were based on the reported need to cut three elementary teachers as part of budget trimming.

Dennis Percy, district business manager, said two of the three can now be retained. Percy said the reason is a substantial reduction in unemployment compensation liability.

All but four of 73 teachers who were pink-slipped have either been recalled by the district or have taken jobs elsewhere. This means the district is liable for unemployment compensation for only four teachers, Percy said.

Aldrich said a public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3, at Jefferson school on the proposed $6.1 million operating budget for 1977-78. This represents a $400,000 increase over last year, but about a $700,000 cut in the budget originally proposed for this year.

On retention of the students at Washington, the board's action was to approve a recommendation that one class section each of fifth and sixth grades be added to Washington school. This eliminated the need to formally rescind board action taken last month, to transfer the sections, Aldrich said.

The board's decision to transfer 43 students out of Washington school was followed last month by a formation of opposing parents into a Concerned Citizens for Washington School group. They turned out some 100 strong for an organizational meeting with school officials and voiced fears that Washington school would be closed. The school officials denied this.

Aldrich reported enrollment includes 1,713 in kindergarten through sixth grades; 509 in junior high school; and 1,415 in senior high.

The enrollment at each elementary school and average student to teacher ratios, in parentheses, were reported as follows:

Washington school, 381 (23.42 to 1); Brown school, 340 (26.15 to 1); E.P. Clarke school, 339 (26.18 to 1); Jefferson, 196 (23 to 1); Lincoln, 211 (26.38 to 1); North Lincoln, 340 (26.80 to 1).

The board in personnel matters approved the recall of six teachers, who went to work at the start of the semester on a temporary basis, pending board action. They are, Greg Clark, Steve Hyske, Mary Peterson, Joanne Merritt, Sandra Kugle and Judith Schnebly.

Deleted from the recall list because they resigned to work elsewhere were, Dale Kimball, Dorothy Mackin, Martin Warner and Leonard Sobczak.

Resignations also were accepted from teachers Bilva Huette, Daryl Haecker and Barbara Ransbottom, who were not on the recall list.

The board unanimously approved a resolution by Ray Dumke that the board of trustees or its designee act as trustee for any donor who might want to establish a trust to benefit the district.

Pro-Air Bag Nader Rips Carmakers

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader, who first gained national attention by crusading for auto safety, is taking on Detroit again. This time his campaign is over the air bag.

The nation's automakers are "selling cars, not saving lives," Nader said Monday in urging Congress to approve the Carter administration's proposal to require air bags or automatic safety belts on all new cars by 1984.

Officials of the Big Four automakers have testified previously that air bags need more testing before they are made standard equipment.

But Nader charged the car manufacturers "would rather spend millions of dollars advertising each year deluxe wheel covers, vinyl roofs, retractable roofs and flexible tailgates."

"They would rather increase their sales of after-market parts by placing cream-puff bumpers on their cars or by designing other parts of their cars to maximize the sale of repair parts," he told a House Commerce subcommittee.

He said the manufacturers have a "callous indifference to human life on the highway."

Under a safety standard issued by Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, the devices will be phased in on 311 new cars between 1982 and 1984. Congress can overrule Adams by passing a resolution of opposition by next month.

Adams estimates the bags and belts will save 9,000 lives a year.

Nader called this a conservative estimate and said the requirement should take effect sooner than Adams has proposed.

Air bags are balloon-like devices that inflate automatically in a front-end collision. Automatic safety belts hold the passenger in a seat without having to be buckled by the wearer.

Nader accused General Motors of "deliberately withholding lifesaving technology — thousands of air bags on its shelves which could go in some of its models now as options — from motorists." He said these air bags are not offered because they would demonstrate the effectiveness of the device.

Nader said General Motors had at one time been receptive to air bags, but changed positions after the retirement of a top GM official.

The leading congressional opponent of air bags, Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., testified that sodium azide, a chemical used to inflate the devices, is a dangerous agent capable of inducing gene mutations. Shuster said the government's environmental impact statement on air bags made no reference to this property of sodium azide. "This material omission is, by itself, ample reason for members of Congress to disapprove the air bag passive restraint order."

Nader later testified that Shuster's testimony consisted of "deceptions, misstatements and distortions of the facts."

He said other chemicals can inflate air bags and that passengers will not come in contact with sodium azide even if it is used.

REUNITED: Alan Pollok from Williamston, Mich. and Bonnie Pratt from nearby Holt didn't know they were brother and sister until the recent death of a great-aunt in Scotland. So a reunion was arranged between Alan and Bonnie. (AP Wirephoto)

Her Letter Ends Long Separation

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — After her great aunt's estate was settled, Bonnie Pratt ended up with a little money, some family photos, a coat of arms and three brothers she never knew she had.

When the aunt died in Scotland last year, Mrs. Pratt was notified that the estate would be divided among herself and her four brothers.

That came as a surprise to Mrs. Pratt, who thought she had only a twin brother, Ron Stocker, who is serving in the Army in Germany.

Mrs. Pratt, 20, had been put up for adoption when she was two years old, after her mother was killed in a train-car accident. Although she knew she was an adopted child, she said she had no particular interest in knowing about her real parents. But when she heard she had three other brothers, she rushed a letter off to Scotland to learn more about them.

Mrs. Pratt discovered that one of the brothers lived in nearby Williamston, Mich. A reunion was arranged.

When she and her 24-year-old brother, Alan Pollok, finally met, they didn't know what to say to each other. "We just stared at each other for awhile and then the tears started rolling down," Mrs. Pratt said. "Then he told me a little bit about our parents — what he could remember. And we talked about how we have similar personalities, which is strange after 18 years."

Pollok said he had been searching for his missing relatives even before he was notified of the death of the great aunt. "I knew I was adopted and I wanted to get back to my blood family — especially my sis. She's the only sis I have and you have to have a sister to pick on."

Working together, the two were soon able to track down another brother, Gary Parker. As it turned out, Parker also was living in Michigan, in the town of Hillsdale. Now they have only one more brother to find. All they know is that he served in the U.S. Air Force.

The great aunt's bequest amounted to little more than a comfortable nest egg for each of them, some family pictures and the coat of arms. "We had dreams," Pollok said. "It would have been great to see a castle sitting up on a hill. It wouldn't have to be a fancy castle." "But with a moat," Mrs. Pratt added. "Don't forget the moat."

But they say the best part of the adventure was getting the family together again. "It's just a little bit more to live for," Mrs. Pratt said.

STAUNCH DEFENDER OF BERT Lance's Wife Unshaken

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert

Lance has planted azalea bushes in his backyard here. "If it will give you a hint," says his wife, "we plan to be here to see them bloom in the spring."

Despite the controversy surrounding her husband's financial dealings, LaBelle Lance says she would be surprised if he resigned his post as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

"I don't think it will even be talked about until after the Senate hearings," she said in an interview Monday afternoon. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee is looking into Lance's financial dealings now and he is to testify on Thursday.

"If Bert should ever decide that he would be less effective as budget director, then I think he would sit down with the President and talk about it. But I don't think that time will come before the Senate hearings," she said, adding:

"Plus, the law says that a man should have a hearing before he is condemned."

Mrs. Lance was at home polishing silver when a reporter called to ask if she would discuss her side of what has become known as "The Lance Affair." She agreed immediately.

An hour later she was sitting in her formal parlor in her Georgetown home, wearing a vibrant red dress her husband bought her this summer because he thought she needed some cheering up. And she passionately defended the man she married 27 years ago last week.

"Bert has a tremendous intellectual mind and his mind grasps finances well," she said. "His business affairs have been very complicated, which is why most people don't understand them."

As she tells it, this ability to comprehend the complexities of his own financial dealings are assets to him as budget director.

Then how, she was asked, could the Lances pledge the same stock dividends as collateral on two different banks for two different loans?

Mrs. Lance's brown eyes narrowed and she took a sip of iced tea from her crystal goblet. "Now, I'll tell you one thing," she said. "I feel very strongly that my husband has done nothing dishonest and nothing wrong. He'll answer those things in the Senate hearings."

Asked if she has sensed any weakening in President Carter's support for her husband, Mrs. Lance said, "No. I think the President feels — very justly so — that the Senate committee should have their chance to hear Bert, and Bert should have a chance to speak before them and answer many of these misrepresented allegations and charges."

"But basically I think the President has to go along with running the country, and I don't think he has to spend nine-tenths of his time answering questions about Bert Lance. I think he's probably just as secure and serene in his own mind as he was when we came because he knows us and we know him from a long time standing, not a fly-by-night (friendship)."

Reports show that Lance and his family frequently overdraw their checking accounts at the bank he ran until 1974. And they paid no penalties. After that, the Lances paid interest but continued the overdrafts.

At the time, Mrs. Lance said, she was not aware that she had written bank overdrafts that went as high as $110,000. "And I don't believe in having overdrafts," she added. "But again, this is in banking situations, and there was nothing wrong with the way it was because the funds were in the bank."

Mrs. Lance said she didn't know how they spent the money they were overdrawing from their checking accounts. "I think it went for a number of different items. I don't have anything to do with that, hesitantly. I just know that it was not illegal and that it never lasted very long, and I know that a note was always there with a note saying to transfer it to whatever account needed it."

"Some of them were definitely overdrafts, but not the kind of overdrafts that a housewife makes with $25 and not $25 to cover it."

Mrs. Lance said her family used the airplane owned by the National Bank of Georgia, which Lance headed, because the bank gave him full use of the plane. One of the items being investigated by federal investigators is Lance's alleged personal use of the bank-owned aircraft.

But the bank directors "gave him carte blanche kind of coverage for the plane," Mrs. Lance said. "A letter has been written by the bank to say this again."

Pryor's Miffed By Cuts In Show

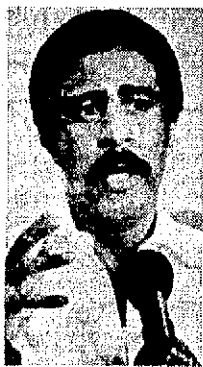

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comic Richard Pryor, whose new NBC comedy-variety series premieres tonight, has dropped a strong hint he may soon leave the series because of what NBC calls "a brief edit."

The edit excised an opening skit in which Pryor appears nude from the waist up, denies he made compromises to get his show aired, and adds: "I've given up absolutely nothing."

The camera then pulls back and shows him naked, save for a flesh-colored loin cloth that gives the impression he's been emaciated.

Speaking at a Monday news conference at NBC studios in nearby Burbank, he said NBC executives are "stifling my creativity and I can't work under these conditions."

He said he'll decide his next step and whether he'll continue the series "when we see what happens tomorrow (Tuesday) night."

RICHARD PRYOR
He's Being 'Stifled'

Pryor said he refused NBC's request to do a substitute skit. His show, aired at 8 p.m. EDT in what is considered the family viewing hour, still has scenes that may startle some families. His hour includes:

—A skit in which a construction worker undresses, reveals he's wearing a polka-dot woman's bikini, dons a blonde wig and during all this sings, "I've Gotta Be Me."

—A spoof of a Clint Eastwood Western in which Pryor, playing a gunfighter, hurls when a villain, ostensibly inquiring about Pryor's donkey, asks, "Hey, how's your ass?"

'Willed Body Program' Includes Funeral Service

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

About 100 persons are expected to gather at Michigan State University Thursday for an unusual ceremony — a funeral for 68 persons whose bodies were used for medical science.

Most of the bodies have been contributed to the university in the last year, although "some have been around for two or three years," said Dr. Milvel Strickler, director of anatomical resources at MSU and head of the anatomy department's "willed body program."

The funeral, with two ministers present, has been held each year for the last five years.

"We feel it's necessary," Strickler said of the service. "It's different to give your body to a school than it is to, say, contribute $100 to a particular program."

The bodies have been cremated at off-campus facilities and the remains placed in separate urns, he said. Following the interdenominational service, the remains will be buried together in a small, secluded cemetery on campus.

The university pays for all funeral and burial costs. The ceremony usually costs the university about $400, Strickler said.

About 25 to 30 inquiries about the willed body program are handled each week, a university spokesman said. The questions involve financial considerations, funeral services and matters such as dignity and privacy, he said.

"We do make every effort to follow through on a person's request that his or her body be used for science. We even maintain a seven day-a-week, 24-hour-a-day phone service," Strickler said.

About 4,500 persons are listed in the department's files as donors willing to give their bodies to the school when they die.

Names of the deceased are not known by the medical school faculty or the students. Each body is identified only by a number and a hospital arm band which states the person's age and cause of death.

Many medical schools dissect the bodies, but MSU prefers to use an approach known as "prosection," Strickler said.

Prosection is a limited dissection in a particular area of the body. The process allows the cadaver to be studied for up to two years.

Strickler said the program seems to be growing in popularity.

"Bequeathing one's body to further the cause of medical education is gaining increased acceptance," he said.

Battery Of PBB Tests Slated On Farm Children

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Babies born to mothers who lived on PBB-quarantined farms will be examined for birth defects this week at a state-sponsored clinic in Muskegon.

Pediatricians, neurologists and psychologists from Michigan's three medical schools will test the children Thursday and Friday in an effort to determine if PBB — polychlorinated biphenyl — causes birth defects.

The doctors will be testing children born on farms that were quarantined between Sept. 1, 1973 and Dec. 31, 1975 because of contamination by the fire retardant chemical. The two-day clinics will be held at the Muskegon County Health Department and at Muskegon General Hospital.

Also examined will be a "control" group of children born to Michigan mothers who had no detectable PBB in their breast milk and children who recently moved to Michigan.

"Complete psychological and neurological examinations will be conducted," said Dr. William Well of the College of Human Medicine at Michigan State University, who heads the research team.

"Doctors will look for symptoms in the neuromuscular, nutritional, growth and infectious disease areas as well."

PBB was mixed accidentally with livestock feed in 1973. Since that time, people who ate food contaminated with the chemical have been found to have varying levels of PBB in their blood and tissues.

At least one team of physicians, headed by Dr. Irving Selikoff of New York's Mt. Sinai Hospital, has found indications that PBB may contribute to a range of physical problems from nervous disorders to weakening of the body's ability to fight disease.

Doctors will obtain extensive "feeding histories" on the children they test, including information on whether they were breast-fed, the type of milk used afterward, formulas, solid food and home-produced food. The tests also will take note of social and economic stresses that might have occurred within the families after the children's birth.

Samples of the children's blood, urine and fatty tissues will be tested for traces of PBB in an attempt to interpret the other data, Well said.

'Roots' Kidnaper Gets 310 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jesse Coulter of Ulea, Mich., faces 310 years in prison after the sentencing judge told him he missed the point of the television series "Roots" when Coulter kidnapped 11 persons at a home for unwed mothers.

"It is a shame that he had to use an outstanding presentation such as 'Roots' as the excuse for perpetrating his crimes," said Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Thomas C. Nurre. "The book points up the futility and injustices that are caused by anarchy and violence and that is what happened in this case."

Coulter, 42, was convicted Saturday of 11 counts of kidnap-ing, four felonious assaults and a charge of possession of a dangerous weapon. The jury deliberated for 13 hours.

The judge imposed the maximum penalty on each charge and ordered them served consecutively. Under Ohio law, however, 15 years is the longest time that can legally be set as a minimum sentence, and court officials said Coulter will be eligible for parole in 9 1/2 years.

Coulter said he embarked on the scheme after watching the television film "Roots," in which author Alex Haley chronicled a search for his heritage through slavery and back to Africa. Coulter, and his former wife, Rita Gibran, took the hostages at the Catherine Booth Home for unwed mothers last February in an attempt to find the son they had placed for adoption there 20 years before, Coulter said he wanted to reunite his family and move to Rhodesia.

Six of the hostages escaped when one knocked away Coulter's sawed-off shotgun. He released the remainder when he became convinced that a Cincinnati police officer, dressed in civilian clothes, was his lost son.

"But for the heroics of the victims and for the courage of the police, we might be here on a sentencing for much more serious charges," Nurre said.

Train Widows, Divorcees Is Goal Of Bayh's Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is studying a bill that would help establish centers to retrain millions of divorced or widowed women who have labored for decades as homemakers and mothers, but suddenly find themselves on their own.

Often spurned by lawmakers, state employment services and the women's movement, these "older women, whether to support their children or themselves, are often ill-prepared to enter the labor market," the bill's sponsor, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., told a hearing Monday.

Bayh's bill would give the states $10 million in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 to help them open service centers for the displaced homemakers.

Bayh told the Senate human resources subcommittee that such middle aged women, robbed of their livelihood by divorce or the death of a spouse, get little help from Social Security and job placement programs.

He noted that widows cannot collect on their husband's Social Security until age 60.

If these women do "breach the barriers of age and sex discrimination," Bayh said, "they are still likely to be employed at menial, low-level occupations which provide only marginal income."

The state centers would provide job counseling and training programs plus legal and financial help.

An Illinois state representative said many recent widows and divorcees should be called the "new poor." Susan Catania said "only about one divorcee in every seven is awarded alimony and less than one in two is granted financial support for the children.

"These women are not looking for a handout, but help to help themselves," she said.

While there are no specific figures on the number of displaced homemakers nationwide, Sen. Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., told the committee that the 10 million widows in 1975 represented a 45 per cent jump in five years. The four million new divorcees that year were an increase of 23 per cent since 1960, he added.

Bills to supply aid to women who never worked outside the home have been passed in 13 states.

Maryland's secretary of human resources, Richard A. Batterton, said that state's center helped 1,500 women in its just-opened first year, but that it is facing financial hard times.

"The primary limitations on our center's program is fiscal," he told the hearing. "The state may not be able to sustain and certainly cannot expand this type of program without federal assistance."

Big Mac Toll Cut Seen Boon To UP

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A $1 reduction in Mackinac Bridge tolls could bring 20 per cent more vehicles across the span, according to Gov. William Milliken.

Milliken said Monday that the Michigan Travel Bureau has estimated lower auto tolls would boost tourism in the eastern Upper Peninsula by $8 million to $13 million a year.

Wet Balloonists Say This Was Their Last Trip

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Two American balloonists who were rescued in good shape after their attempt to float across the Atlantic failed say they won't try again.

A U.S. Air Force helicopter rescued Ben L. Abruzzo, 47, and Maxie Anderson, 44, from their floating gondola off the northwest coast of Iceland Monday night after ice and whirlpool winds forced them down 800 miles short of their goal.

"We won't give it another try," said the wet and weary adventurers from Albuquerque, N.M., after the helicopter brought them to the Keflavik Air Base 20 miles southwest of Reykjavik.

A satellite beacon made by a friend in New Mexico. It transmitted a mayday signal. That's what saved us."

An Air Force spokesman said the balloon's descent was monitored, and the helicopter rescued the crew minutes after the balloon and its gondola hit the water five miles from shore.

Abruzzo and Anderson spent 10 hours in the air. The flight was tracked by the Goddard Space Center in Maryland, which said they traveled about 1,720 miles.

It was the 15th unsuccessful trans-Atlantic attempt by balloonists since the middle of the 19th Century. Five of them died trying. The one who came closest to success was Edward A. Galt of Sioux Falls, S.D., who ditched 600 miles short of Portugal last October after drifting from Maine.

Abruzzo and Anderson left the Massachusetts coast at dusk Friday hoping to make France in three days. They were on schedule until Monday when a circling air mass trapped their five-story-high balloon, the Double Eagle, over the Denmark Strait between Greenland and Iceland.

"We soon began losing altitude," Abruzzo said. "The balloon iced up badly. At the same time, we were caught by the winds and began to drift north instead of south. The weather was pure hell."

"Both our emergency radio transmitters were out of action because of moisture. But we had

Charbroil With Penta Is 'No-No'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A tip from the state agriculture chief: don't broil your hamburgers over fires fed by wood that has been treated with a preservative.

It could be dangerous, says state Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball.

Ball's warning Monday followed state findings this year of the common wood preservative pentachlorophenol — or penta — in animal tissue. The state recently quarantined several dairy herds because of high levels of penta.

Chemically treated wood is commonly used for construction purposes to reduce decay and discourage insect destruction.

"But we frequently hear of cases where people have used their scraps of wood to start charcoal broiling fires, make bonfires for cooking or even let youngsters use the blocks for playthings," Ball said. "This kind of use of chemically treated wood should be avoided."

700-Year-Old Body Discovered

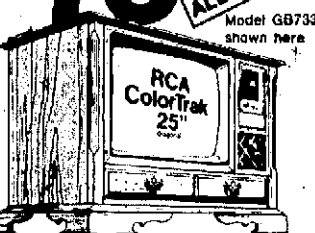

HONG KONG (AP) — A 700-year-old body found in China's Kiangsu province is so well preserved that most of its joints are still movable and the texture of its hair and skin is good, a Hong Kong Communist newspaper reported today. Ta Kung Pao said the body of Chow Yu, a scholar in the Han Dynasty, was found in a tomb in Ching Tan county south of the Yangtze river. The body was identified by books and writings in the tomb, the report said. Doctors at a Shanghai hospital examined the body and determined that Chow was about 40 when he died and had a lung infection and intestinal worms, the paper said.

Trash Pickup Law Adopted In Eau Claire

EAU CLAIRE — An ordinance making it mandatory for all property owners in the village to subscribe to a trash pickup service was adopted by the Eau Claire village council last night.

The ordinance becomes effective immediately and includes provisions for a 10 per cent surcharge for late payment of pickup bills and for adding delinquent bills to the village tax rolls.

The ordinance was adopted after a number of village residents complained previously that people not paying for the service were putting their refuse in front of homes of those paying for the service.

The pickup service now costs $2.50 monthly.

In other areas, the council was told that $3,415 will be transferred from the major street account to the sewer fund as the result of a revision of the books on a $21,000 sewer construction project along the new section of Third street, completed in October, 1976.

Marvin LaVanway, a former council president, charged at last month's meeting that $15,000 had been siphoned from the sewer fund for construction of the new section of Third street and a water line along the street.

The council at that time agreed to separate the charges for labor, equipment rental and materials on the sewer construction and street construction projects.

On the recommendation of Emil Platske, of Civil Consulting, Kalamazoo, engineering consultant for the village, the council voted to accept as village streets all roadways in the Pond-A-Rosa and O'Claire Hills subdivisions.

The council requested Platske to conduct a preliminary study for extension of sidewalks from the Berrien county road commission building to the high school.

Robert Rode, council member and street commissioner, was appointed street administrator with a yearly salary of $390.

Jerry Johnson, Berrien Springs, was retained as village attorney on a per-job basis. Johnson also serves as attorney for Berrien Springs village and Oronoko township.

The council voted to hire Cliff Wilse, Watervliet, to erect a fence at the No. 1 village lift station, at a cost of $783. There were no other bidders for the job.

William Durham, building committee chairman and council member, was authorized to contract for repair of the village hall roof.

Who Should Prosecute?

WAYNE, Mich. (AP) — The FBI and Indiana authorities are trying to decide who should prosecute a 21-year-old man who was arrested by Wayne police as he rode a bus from Battle Creek to Detroit. Richard Turlon of Howe, Ind., was carrying a chocolate cake, two sandwiches and $5,300 in allegedly stolen money in a paper bag when he was arrested Saturday. He was being held on an open charge Monday while authorities decided who would prosecute him. Ray Le Cornu, director of public safety in this Detroit suburb, said some of his officers, acting on a tip, grabbed Turlon while the bus was halted in Wayne. He said the man offered no resistance and that there was no trace of a handgun he allegedly carried during the Friday holdup of the Howe branch of the State Bank of Ind., Ind. Police said the robber got $6,000 and fired at a La Grange County deputy during the holdup.

Police Go To Arbitration

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Representatives of the Highland Park Police Officers Association have agreed to submit their demands for a pay increase to binding arbitration rather than call a strike of their 81-member group. Jim Dolson, president of the association said state law gives the two sides five days in which to agree on an arbitrator and begin the proceedings. "A lot of our members called for a strike," Dolson said before the agreement. "If it weren't for the welfare and safety of the citizens being our main concern, we'd probably be on a strike right now." The decision to go to binding arbitration came Monday night at a meeting called to consider the possibility of calling a walkout.

Council Fears Relocation Home Is Also Substandard

GALLEN — Village councilmen here last night expressed concern over the pending move of a Gallen resident from a house to be demolished under a federal program to another house in the village. Atty. Louis Desenberg, village legal counsel, however, told the council there may be little it can do in the matter. Mrs. Lottie Norris has received $18,500 under a federal Housing and Urban Development department (HUD) program to move from 212 East First street to 207 Cleveland avenue, the council said. The first street house, said by the council to be substandard, is to be demolished. The $18,500 payment is part of a community development grant awarded to the village by HUD.

Councilman Rex Hinman said he felt the Cleveland avenue house Mrs. Norris was scheduled to move into was also substandard, and might need repairs in the future. "I feel we have a responsibility as a council for the town and I feel we should have something to say about the quality of the homes where people are to be relocated," Hinman said. Desenberg told the council that once the relocation money is awarded through HUD, he questioned whether the council could intervene. No action was taken on the matter.

In other areas, the council approved purchase of a snow plow from Root Spring Scaper, Kalamazoo, at $1,300. Sandra Ostrander, village clerk, announced that voter registration cards will be issued prior to the annual village election in March.

Robert Lowell Dies At 60

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell Jr., one of the nation's most-acclaimed poets, is dead at 60 of an apparent heart attack.

The Pulitzer Prize-winner was stricken as he rode into Manhattan from John F. Kennedy International Airport Monday night. Lowell had been on a visit to Ireland, where his third wife, the former Caroline Blackwell and their son live. He intended to spend a few days here before going to Boston to resume his longtime duties as a lecturer at Harvard University.

Lowell was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and his poetry had brought him many awards, including the 1947 Pulitzer Prize for "Lord Weary's Castle," his second published work.

The last of more than a dozen other works, "Day by Day," was published earlier this year. Lowell's second wife, ELIZABETH Hardwick, who resumed her maiden name after their divorce in 1973 following a 28-year marriage, said Lowell was on his way from the airport to her Manhattan apartment when he died.

"The driver at first thought he was asleep," she said. "I guess he died sometime between when he got in the taxi and the time he got here."

Born into a family that included two other famous poets, Amy Lowell and James Russell Lowell, Lowell once said that the relative he would most like to have known was "my military cousin," Charles Russell Lowell, who was a Civil War General.

His mother, Charlotte Winslow, came from another upper-crust family but Lowell once confided to an interviewer that he was "comfortable in the 'Jewish age' of American literature because he was one-eighth Jewish himself.

"My Jewish ancestors, oddly enough, were named Moses Mordecai and Mordecai Moses," he said.

After St. Mark's preparatory school, where he said he got the nickname "Caligula," which was shortened to "Cal" and stuck with him long afterward, Lowell went to Harvard in 1939. But he stayed there only two years, moving to Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio, where he was graduated summa cum laude.

For a brief time after graduation, Lowell was an editorial assistant for Sheed and Ward here, but in 1942 he became just Robert Lowell, poet. In 1943 he became Robert Lowell, Conscientious Objector. Lowell served six months in prison for his refusal to bear arms in World War II, and described the experience in verse.

Lance Coverup Charges Aired

and others on Dec. 1 in which problems at one of Lance's banks were discussed.

In announcing his intention to call Moore as a witness, Percy said he had no evidence that anyone outside the computer's office was involved in a coverup. But he added, "I hope to call Mr. Moore to testify as to what his knowledge was and why he didn't transmit this information (about Lance's financial trouble) to us."

At Monday's hearing, Bloom admitted he made a misleading statement to the Senate committee during confirmation hearings on Lance and denied that any information was deliberately concealed.

Bloom testified that the Dec. 1 telephone conference call was about how to handle press inquiries about restrictions placed on the Calhoun bank. The call involved Bloom, Lance, Moore, Carter and Lance's attorney, Sidney Smith.

Bloom said it was his recollection that Moore said little or nothing, although he does not keep memoranda of telephone conversations and "I'm damned if I can remember who said what."

But he agreed that he misled the committee when he told the panel in a letter that large overdrafts written by Lance and his wife caused no loss to the Calhoun bank.

Moore gave Internal Revenue Service investigators an account of the conversation, which the IRS paraphrased as follows:

"They prepared a press release for Mr. Lance's use and Mr. Lance called President-elect Carter and briefed him on the contents of the press release. They all spoke with Mr. Carter on the conference speaker phone and he (Moore) inferred that Mr. Carter was knowledgeable of the matters discussed."

The press release, which was never issued, said the bank had agreed in December 1975 to discontinue overdrafts on the Lances' account and other questioned practices. This was the agreement that was canceled last Nov. 22.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate panel, read a bank examiner's report on Lance and the Calhoun bank to other members of the committee Monday. He said the report called Lance a "very weak" administrator who was "not considered a capable lending officer."

And Sen. William Roth, R-Del., suggested that Bloom and Lance had been too chummy. Bloom denied that, but acknowledged that he did give some thought to his future in the government.

Bloom, whose letter to the committee said he thought Lance well qualified to be budget director, said he believes career civil servants should not be asked to pass judgment on political appointees.

"You are asking me to shoot to kill," he said, "because if I shoot and miss, I'd better go back into private enterprise."

In other developments: —Powell said he and two other top White House aides read an FBI report in early January detailing $450,000 in bank overdrafts to Lance and his family, but decided not to bring it to Carter's attention. Powell said the decision which he, presidential aide Hamilton Jordan and counsel Robert Lipschitz made was "open to some comment at least."

—A presidential press conference tentatively scheduled for Wednesday was put off until after Lance has testified. Lance is scheduled to appear Thursday and Percy said his testimony would probably continue on Friday and possibly into next week.

—Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., told Carter in a letter that he should fire Lance immediately to avoid "an indelible impression ... that you are unable to take forceful steps on your own initiative to maintain the integrity of your administration."

—Two Democrats, Reps. Leon Whitta of California and Bill Hughes of New Jersey, said in separate statements that Lance should step aside until the investigation is complete.

—Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., told a news conference in Augusta, Ga., that "a stampede" is on against Lance. He said Carter "is correct in saying Lance should be given a chance to appear and answer the charges."

Some Attend At Eau Claire On The Sly?

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night began investigating reports that non-resident students are attending the school system without being accepted and paying tuition.

The board authorized mailing a letter to all district residents stating it has come to the board's attention there may be some students attending Eau Claire schools that do not reside in the district and are not tuition students.

Mrs. Reva Murphy, board president, said it's the position of the board that it "will not tolerate parents or guardians furnishing any false or misleading information regarding the residency of any student attending Eau Claire schools."

Dr. William J. Horie, superintendent, said this morning around 20 such cases are being investigated.

He said it has been rumored that some are giving Eau Claire Post Office box numbers but don't really live within the district, while others are supposedly living with relatives without proper transfer of guardianship.

Last year Eau Claire had 169 tuition students, with 50 of them coming from the K-8 systems of River, Riverside and Wood school districts. Some 115 others were from the Benton Harbor school district and four from other school districts. The tuition rate is $250 per year per student.

The board set Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m. as the public hearing date on the district's proposed 1977-78 operating budget.

Dr. Horie said administrators are waiting for the fourth Friday enrollment count before pinpointing an exact budget figure. Due to the early harvest this year, it is feared many migrant students usually in school on the fourth Friday will have moved back south.

Enrollment is currently projected at around 1,200 but Dr. Horie said it could drop to 1,125 depending on the migrant situation. State aid is based on the fourth Friday enrollment count.

The board also approved a new one-year contract with its cafeteria employees. The new contract, already ratified by cafeteria employees, calls for the following hourly rates, with last year's rate in parenthesis: Over two years experience $3.15 ($2.85); 90 days to two years experience, $2.85 ($2.65); and probationary status, $2.75 ($2.45).

The board also adopted three policies stating goals for the district's adult and community education program and approved joining the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

TV Crime Is Blamed For Murder

ing. "Even when the woman had been struck, there was doubt it happened — it seemed as though Zamora could wake up and find it never happened," said Rubin.

Tom Headley, assistant state attorney, said the issue was not television but whether Zamora was sane and understood the difference between right and wrong. He said the psychiatric report showed Zamora did understand the difference.

Rubin, sidestepping any direct admission of guilt by Zamora, described his client as "a boy who was predisposed as a pathological case."

To back up his case, Rubin presented a newspaper account from Columbus, Ohio, in which police said a teen-ager lay shot, his brother to death Sunday after watching the televised movie, "Dirty Harry."

But Judge H. Paul Baker limited Rubin to the effect of television "on this defendant, in this case, under these circumstances."

Still, Baker said in a posthearing interview in his chambers, the trial could well produce an insanity argument "that has never been raised before."

Governorship

HOUSTON (AP) — Candace Mossler seriously considered running for governor of Texas in 1972, says a son-in-law of the late millionaire.

James Meredith, of Denver, Colo., said Monday that Mrs. Mossler was paying political advisers "a lot of money" until several persons he did not identify convinced her she could not be elected.

The testimony was given during the third week of a trial in which two adopted sons, Daniel, 26, and Christopher Mossler, 25, are challenging the validity of a 1975 will supplement. The supplement disinherits them and a sister, Martha Mossler Meredith, Meredith's wife.

The original will signed in 1968 left the $12 to $15 million estate to two natural children and four adopted children. Mrs. Mossler, 62, died last October in Miami.

A Funny Thing Happened...

They're Kicking The Habit

NEW YORK (AP) — After puffing the equivalent of eight cartons of cigarettes a day for years, the nation's two heaviest smokers have finally kicked the habit. They had been blowing perfect smoke rings of steam continuously every 20 seconds, one high over Times Square and the other at State and Randolph Streets in Chicago's Loop. But now all that remains in Times Square is a blank billboard with a hole in it. And in the Windy City the lips of the smoker have been forever sealed with a yard-square sheet of metal. The Reynolds Tobacco Co. said Monday the signs not only had become too costly to operate, but also "our advertising thrust is taking a new direction."

No Parking Problem Here

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. (AP) — Lots of people have cars valued at $10,000, but most don't keep them in their houses. Elmer Duellman is an exception. His prize is a shiny-as-new 1929 touring car — a Model A Ford Phaeton. "I bought it and my wife said, 'Boy, that's nice enough to put in the house,' and that's what we did," said Duellman, 37, who has assembled a collection of antique cars and who operates his own auto salvage yard. A movable wall section allows the auto to be driven in and out of the family room.

Mom-And-Pop Government

WOODLAND, Ga. (AP) — You could say B. Nelson Goolsby and wife have a mom-and-pop government business. Mrs. Goolsby is the mayor of this Talbot County town of 675, and hubby is the city manager. "Nobody else would qualify, and it was necessary to have a mayor and since Nelson was city manager, I felt it was my responsibility," said Marilyn Goolsby, 30. "We take care of everything from the streets in the garbage," Goolsby said. Although Mrs. Goolsby is technically her husband's boss in the city hierarchy, there is one place he won't take orders — his garden. "I won't let anyone touch it but me," he said. "My tomatoes this year beat anybody's in town."

Wind Handicaps Spitters

PARDEEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Despite a brisk crosswind, a spit of 41 feet, seven and one-half inches won the seed-spitting contest at the U.S. Watermelon Eating and Seed Spitting championships. Mike Roberts of Ito, Wis., won the 10th annual competition Sunday, even though he was about six feet off the record of 47 feet, six inches set in 1973. Contest organizers blamed a brisk southerly wind for the lack of new contest records. In the watermelon speed-eating contest Tim Robinson of Madison, Wis., downed a twopound slice in 11.8 seconds. Pat Enmons of Pardeeville, Wis., defended her championship in the women's division for the eighth consecutive year, finishing her slice in 14.5 seconds.

NMU Faculty Opposes Strike

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The faculty of Northern Michigan University has voted against a strike, but left approval of the administration's final contract offer up in the air. Sources within the NMU chapter of the American Association of University Professors appeared split over whether the university's latest offer would be accepted. "There are some minor language pieces to be settled," one spokesman said Monday. "When they are smoothed out, the offer will be voted upon by union members."

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending Sept. 9 were:

HOUSE
B-1 Bomber — By a 202-189 vote the House upheld President Carter's decision to cancel production of the B-1 bomber. The vote deleted from the fiscal 1978 defense appropriations bill $1.4 billion for production of five of the planes with which the Air Force hoped to replace its fleet of B-52s.

Earlier this year, the House rejected a similar move by a vote of 178-243. After that vote President Carter recommended that production of the B-1 be stopped. The Senate concurred in that recommendation.

House supporters of deleting the B-1 funds argued that highly accurate cruise missiles carried by existing B-52s would be even more effective than the $100-million-a-copy B-1s.

Opponents of deleting the funds insisted that the B-52s would soon be too old to operate even as cruise missile carriers. They also said that the U.S. should not abandon production of the B-1 without demanding reciprocal cutbacks from the Soviet Union.

As passed by the House and cleared for the President's signature, the defense money bill contains $42.5 million for continued research with the existing four B-1s.

Voting to delete B-1 bomber funds: Blanchard (D); Conyers (D); Wright (Majority Leader).

Voting not to delete B-1 bomber funds: Brown (R); Stockman (R); Vander Jagt (R); Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Federal Budget — The House adopted, by a 198-188 vote, a budget resolution providing for expenditures of $459.5 billion and estimated revenues of $397.9 billion for fiscal year 1978, which begins Oct. 1. The result would be a deficit of $61.6 billion.

Opponents of the budget resolution charged that the high spending and deficit levels would increase inflation, drive up interest rates and result in higher taxes. They also said that such a large deficit, caused by President Carter's economic stimulus program, is unnecessary since the nation is experiencing an economic upsurge and is contrary to the goal of a balanced budget.

Supporters of the budget resolution said that they too were committed to a balanced budget, but that this could only be achieved with a strong economy. The economy is still sluggish, they said, cutting into revenue estimates and requiring increased spending on unemployment compensation, job programs and other economic stimulus programs.

Voting for budget resolution: Blanchard (D); Wright (Majority Leader).

Voting against budget resolution: Brown (R); Conyers (D); Stockman (R); Rhodes (Minority Leader).

SENATE
Coal and Uranium Ownership — By a 62-30 vote, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment that would have prevented major oil and gas producers from acquiring further coal and uranium resources. The defeated amendment to a coal conversion bill would not have required any firm to divest itself of existing holdings.

Supporters of killing the amendment argued that a ban on acquisition of coal and uranium by oil and gas companies was unfair, inimical to energy development and an unwarranted assertion of government power over the free enterprise system. Opponents of killing the measure contended that coal and uranium resources should be held by owners other than oil and gas companies in order to stimulate price competition among alternative energy resources.

Voting to kill anti-acquisition amendment: Griffin (R).

Voting against killing anti-acquisition amendment: Riegle (D).

Presidential Primaries Called Too Long

DETROIT (AP) — The "season" for presidential primaries would be shortened to 13 weeks from mid-March to mid-June under a proposal adopted by a Democratic reform commission.

"It would eliminate the 'media-event' aspect of the New Hampshire primary," said Morley Winograd, chairman of the Commission on Presidential Primaries and Party Structure, which met here over the weekend.

"Many felt it (the traditional first-in-the-nation New Hampshire test) distorted the candidates' views," said Winograd, who also chairs the Michigan Democratic Party. "It was felt we might get a more balanced view of the nation's feelings with a new format."

If adopted by the national party, the rule would end jockeying for early primary and caucus dates between New Hampshire and other states such as occurred in 1976.

"We have nothing against the caucus method of selecting candidates," Winograd said. "We simply want to shorten the time span to 13 weeks."

The commission said that if states cannot comply because their primary dates are set by law, exemptions could be granted if those states showed a good faith effort to comply.

The commission also was strongly opposed to primaries where cross-over voting is allowed.

"The feeling was that primary elections are supposed to enable the parties to feel the pulse of their members," Winograd said. "You can't do that when Republicans are allowed to cast votes in a Democratic primary. It becomes very disruptive."

The commission also was opposed to national primaries and mandatory regional primaries.

The proposals drafted in Detroit will be sent to state Democratic parties and to the Democratic National Committee for comment.

After hearing comments from the state parties, the commission then expects to meet in Washington early next year to draft a final report to the national committee.

Preminger Offers Bella Film Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Rep. Bella Abzug, one of five losers in the city's Democratic mayoral primary, can have a new career in the movies — if she wants it.

After Mrs. Abzug conceded defeat early Friday morning, Otto Preminger told her she could have a role in a new movie he is making. Everyone thought the eccentric producer was kidding.

Preminger insisted Monday that he was so serious that he plans to write in a part for Mrs. Abzug in "The Homeland," to be filmed in Israel.

A spokesman for Mrs. Abzug said that because of the Jewish holidays, she couldn't be reached immediately to comment on the offer.

Lesson From Bert Lance Case: Beware Of Speaking Quickly

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the lessons of the Bert Lance affair could be summed up as, "Beware of rhetorical overdrifts."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which is investigating the budget director's tangled financial deals, probably wishes he hadn't brushed aside the original allegations against Lance as a smear.

And as more and more details of Lance's dealings as a Georgia banker come to light, President Carter may wish he'd never turned to his budget director and said, "I'm proud of you, Bert."

So it was understandable that Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., was trying to choose his words very carefully when reporters asked for his views about whether Lance should resign.

Baker said he wasn't calling for Lance's resignation because he felt the investigations should continue and the budget director "should have his day in court."

Was Baker saying Lance should be charged with a crime? "Did you mean day in court or day in Congress?" a reporter asked.

"Day in Congress, I meant luncheon guests to the Capitol for a meal that cost $14.40 a head, including tip. The menu featured Lobster Congress, which someone translated as lobster salad."

Many jobs, great and small, are filled by presidential appointment. During his presidency, Jimmy Carter might get a chance to fill vacancies on the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, he'll appoint countless U.S. attorneys and marshals. Among the latest nominations sent to the Senate for confirmation by Carter was that of Col. Donald Michael O'Shel to be a member of the California Debris Commission, a group that supervises storage of hydraulic mining debris.

So far as Rep. Marjorie S.

Holt, R-Md., is concerned, the biggest favor Congress could do for the American people is adjourn.

Mrs. Holt noted on the House floor that some of her colleagues were urging Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to keep Congress in session for the rest of the year.

"I believe this is a very poor idea," she said. "It is an unfortunate fact of our times that the taxpayers are safer when the Congress is not in session."

CAPITOL IDEAS

day in Congress," Baker quickly replied.

"I see things in Washington haven't changed much since I left," commented a bemused onlooker, former President Gerald R. Ford.

It was a protocol officer's nightmare. The sort of event that gives security men ulcers. Nineteen heads of state invited to lunch at the Capitol.

When foreign dignitaries come to Washington, they customarily are invited to have lunch with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But they usually arrive one at a time.

But representatives of 27 countries, including 19 heads of state, were in Washington for the signing of the Panama Canal treaty, and the committee invited them all.

It took 100 cars to bring all the

Businessmen Push Detroit Hotel Casino Plan

DETROIT (AP) — A small, but highly organized and well-financed group of downtown businessmen are taking a chance on gambling.

The group has enlisted the aid of State Rep. William Ryan, an influential Detroit Democrat, and are planning a lavish public relations campaign to win voter approval of casinos in the Nov. 8 election. Detroit voters overwhelmingly rejected the idea in an advisory referendum last fall despite the backing of Mayor Coleman Young and most segments of the city's business and labor establishment.

A new state law would be required to legalize the casinos, and even if the referendum is passed, Gov. William Milliken has pledged to veto any casino legislation. Still, the casino boosters are unfazed.

"We're putting together a real coalition," said one of the downtown investors, J. Michael Hughes.

The group has contacted a Washington-based political consultant firm to run a $100,000 campaign and is planning a lobbying blitz in Lansing.

Hughes is one of three owners of a vacant, 800-room hotel in Downtown Detroit. He acknowledged a personal interest in the casino issue, but added: "We're doing this because our roots are here. We love this city."

Unlike the casino proposition which was defeated last year, with gambling revenues earmarked for education, the new proposal would set the money aside for programs to help the elderly and handicapped. It was after a similar revision that Atlantic City, N.J., voters approved a gambling referendum on the second try last November. Among other provisions:

—Casinos would be limited to hotels in the downtown Detroit area, and would exclude the new Renaissance center because the proposal's purpose is to revive depressed hotel trade, not "benefit an already profitable business," Hughes said.

—A special commission appointed by the governor would be charged with making sure casino operators had no connection with organized crime. Convicted felons would be denied entry to casinos.

—Semi-formal attire would be required in the casinos on weekdays and formal dress on weekends. Tuxedos would be for rent outside the casino doors. The tuxedos "will develop a veritable class atmosphere," Hughes said. "We want to make it very clear that this is for tourists, not local people."

Tax Boost Eyed In Social Security

By EDMOND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is examining a proposal that would take about $87 more next year from workers who pay the maximum Social Security payroll tax.

The plan is one of several being considered by the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, which is under instructions to find a solution to the financial crisis faced by the big federal retirement system.

The subcommittee scheduled discussion today of the proposal to increase Social Security payroll taxes, offered by the chairman of the full committee, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore.

Unless Congress acts, the Social Security trust fund for disability payments is projected to be exhausted in 1979 or late 1978 and the fund for old age payments will be empty by 1983.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Monday that he and President Carter have agreed Congress must act this year to ease the worries of Social Security beneficiaries.

Ullman proposes increasing the rate of the payroll tax, which is paid by employers and employees, by two-tenths of 1 per cent each. He also suggested increasing the maximum wage base on which the tax is levied by $500 a year for each of the next five years in addition to the automatic increases provided by existing law.

If the Ullman plan were enacted, the Social Security tax rate would go to 6.25 per cent in 1978. Under this plan, workers would keep paying the Social Security tax until they had made $18,200. Those making this amount or more, and their employers, would each pay $1,137.90 in Social Security taxes. Under present law, workers would be required next year to pay a maximum of $1,070.85 in Social Security taxes.

Ullman also proposed a backup feature that would allow Social Security to borrow from the general treasury.

President Carter has proposed a complex Social Security refinancing plan that would include a transfer of $14.1 billion from general treasury revenues to the Social Security trust funds.

However, the Senate Finance Committee is on record against any use of general treasury funds for Social Security.

The Republican House leadership is backing still another plan that would involve no payroll tax increase before 1982, except for automatic increases provided by existing law.

The GOP plan fursees a tax rate increase of five-tenths of 1 per cent in 1982 and includes a number of long-range changes in the law, including one that would begin in 1990 to increase the age for retirement at full benefits. That plan would make 68 the normal retirement age by 2001, instead of the present 65. Persons would still be able to retire at younger ages, but with reduced benefits.

One feature of the GOP plan, which supporters estimate would bring $4 billion a year into the Social Security funds, calls for placing the 2.7 million federal employees under Social Security in 1979.

Ullman has said it might be desirable ultimately to consolidate in some way civil service retirement and Social Security, but the change would have to be gradual.

'Enterprise' Flies Today With Computer As Pilot

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — With a last minute practice flight under their belts, two astronauts were prepared to take the Space Shuttle Enterprise on its second free glide.

Astronauts Joe Engle, 45, and Richard Truly, 41, were to be at the controls of the shuttle for today's piggyback flight atop a Boeing 747 jet that would set them free at 25,000 feet.

The astronauts spent Monday flying a jet trainer specially modified to handle the Enterprise. They traced the path the shuttle was set to take over the NASA Dryden Test Flight Center here and skimmed low over the dry lake bed touchdown site.

Today's planned course varied slightly from the "U" shaped pattern followed on the first flight — one of the corners of the "U" was to be a hairpin turn to test the craft's handling.

The astronauts were given a few more tasks for the second flight.

The flight plan called for Engle to punch soon after the separation a series of numbered keys, somewhat like those on a push button phone, triggering the shuttle's computers to fly the Enterprise automatically with the guidance of an electronic brain.

Engle, an Air Force colonel, also had instructions to nose the plane up and down and roll it gently from side to side to check its responsiveness to cockpit controls.

On Aug. 12, two other astronauts piloted the Enterprise during a successful 9½-minute flight.

A set of explosive bolts holding the Enterprise and the mothercraft together were fired, releasing the shuttle, and allowing it to lift cleanly off the Boeing's back to begin the free flight.

Engle and Truly had previously ridden in the 75-ton craft as it was flown locked atop its jumbo jet carrier plane.

As in the August flight, a cone was placed on the tail of the Enterprise for today's flight. The cone rests at the place where the shuttle's huge exhaust nozzle would be under future solo launch conditions.

Without the cone, engineers believe, the shuttle would be a more awkward passenger for the carrier plane, and, a poorer glider after separation.

Test officials want to see more of the craft's handling characteristics before removing the cone.

Nurses Pact Gets Nod

DETROIT (AP) — Services at Detroit General Hospital were expected to be back to normal today after bargainers reached tentative agreement on a new labor contract covering some 200 members of the Registered Nurses Organization. Key issue in the dispute was the role of the nurse in the operation of the hospital. The contract agreement was reached Monday night.

COED KIDNAP SUSPECT: Wayne Edward Garrity, charged with kidnaping a college coed in Tennessee, talks to reporters Monday upon leaving a hearing in Charlotte, N.C. Garrity, who on Sunday said he kidnaped the girl and also the woman charged as a co-defendant in the case, said Monday that the victim was picked "through research." Congress Abortion Rift Clouds Agency Funding

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate disagreement over the government's role in providing abortions for poor women may jeopardize operating funds for two of the largest domestic agencies.

Conferees from the two chambers failed to agree Monday on when the government should pay for abortions through its Medicaid program.

The abortion issue is the only remaining obstacle to passage of a $91.2-billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare for the coming fiscal year. Money for those agencies expires on Sept. 30, when this fiscal year ends.

If the dispute is prolonged, Congress could pass a continuing resolution to provide temporary operating funds. The two departments would then be allowed to spend at the same rate as in this fiscal year.

Medicaid paid for about 300,000 abortions last year.

The House-Senate conferees' disagreement on Monday was on whether the full House will be allowed to vote on the Senate's approach to the abortion issue.

The Senate position is that federally-funded abortions should be permitted in cases of rape or incest or where "medically necessary."

But the House conferees, most of whom object to such a broad provision, refused to ask for a vote by the full body.

The Senate conferees then voted to end the meeting without setting a date for a new session.

Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., who heads the House conferees, expressed surprise at the senators' action.

"I don't know what right they have to insist upon what we vote on," he said.

But his counterpart, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., maintained, "Inasmuch as the Senate voted on the House language and turned it down 60 to 38, the House ought to vote on the Senate language."

The House position is to pay for abortions in cases where a woman's life would be endangered by a full-term pregnancy.

Magnuson said the Senate conferees would be unwilling to talk about other compromises until such a vote took place.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., said he doubts the Senate language would pass in the House. "You have a lot of people who feel it is as broad as no limitation at all."

Obey said he expects the conferees to compromise before the current Labor-HEW funds expire.

"I think it would be absurd to have a continuing resolution over this subject, just asinine," he said.

Two States Joining Forces To Oppose 'Seafarer' Grid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The attorneys general of Michigan and Wisconsin have joined forces to oppose any Navy plans for its Project Seafarer that might include building the underground communications grid in either state.

In a joint announcement Monday, Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette said they believe "there are serious questions about the health and safety aspects of the project, along with many environmental concerns."

After its plans to locate the mammoth grid in Wisconsin were rejected by residents of that state, the government proposed building Seafarer in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Milliken early this year "vetted" the project under an agreement with the Ford administration, but the question of whether that veto is binding has never been answered by the Navy.

Under earlier Navy plans, Seafarer — known as Sanguine when it first was proposed in Wisconsin — would have included thousands of square miles of antenna cable buried in a grid pattern, to be used to send coded messages to submarines while they were underwater. Such vessels currently must come near the surface to receive radio transmissions.

After its original plans met with stiff opposition from residents of the two states, the Navy has recently suggested a smaller system be located partly in Michigan and partly in Wisconsin.

"This is a prime recreational area in both states and we regard any project that would pose potential harm to the recreational value of the area as being unsound, economically, environmentally and politically," Kelley and LaFollette said.

They said a National Research Council study of Seafarer raised questions of possible electric shock and impacts on bird migrations and fish life, and demonstrated lack of information in other areas of the program.

The study said a properly designed Seafarer system should be safe, but that the present proposal should be modified somewhat before any installation.

Grand Mere Naturalist Appointed

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Richard Schinkel, Oronoko township naturalist, has been appointed by the Grand Mere Association to develop a system of nature trails in the Grand Mere wildlife area, according to Ed Ketterer, association president.

Working with the board of directors to make the area more accessible for nature study, Schinkel will also design maps, brochures and other educational materials in association with the trail system, Ketterer said. Leading tours, making nature presentations and contacting local groups and schools to advise them of facilities are some of the duties Schinkel will take up this fall.

"The area needs this kind of attention by someone who knows it and can appreciate it," said Ketterer.

Schinkel previously conducted nature study tours for the Grand Mere Association, a non-profit organization concerned with preserving the dune, lake and bog area in Lincoln township.

Ketterer said that although the appointment has been approved, the contract has not yet been concluded and no fee has been agreed upon.

82,000 Still On 'Holiday'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nearly 82,000 Michigan students were in for another day without classes as teachers in five school districts remained on strike today after walkouts ended in four other districts.

A count by the Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Federation of Teachers Monday showed 81,963 pupils and 3,487 teachers still idled by continuing labor tieups.

The 779 teachers in the Waterford district were the latest to reach a tentative agreement. The district's 17,896 pupils were to begin classes today.

In Madison Heights, students were allowed to register Monday and a full day of classes was set for today after teachers voted over the weekend to accept the administration's latest offer.

And in Dexter, a strike ended Monday with a weekend agreement by the teachers and school board to submit unresolved issues to binding arbitration.

Teachers in Southfield also returned to their jobs on Monday.

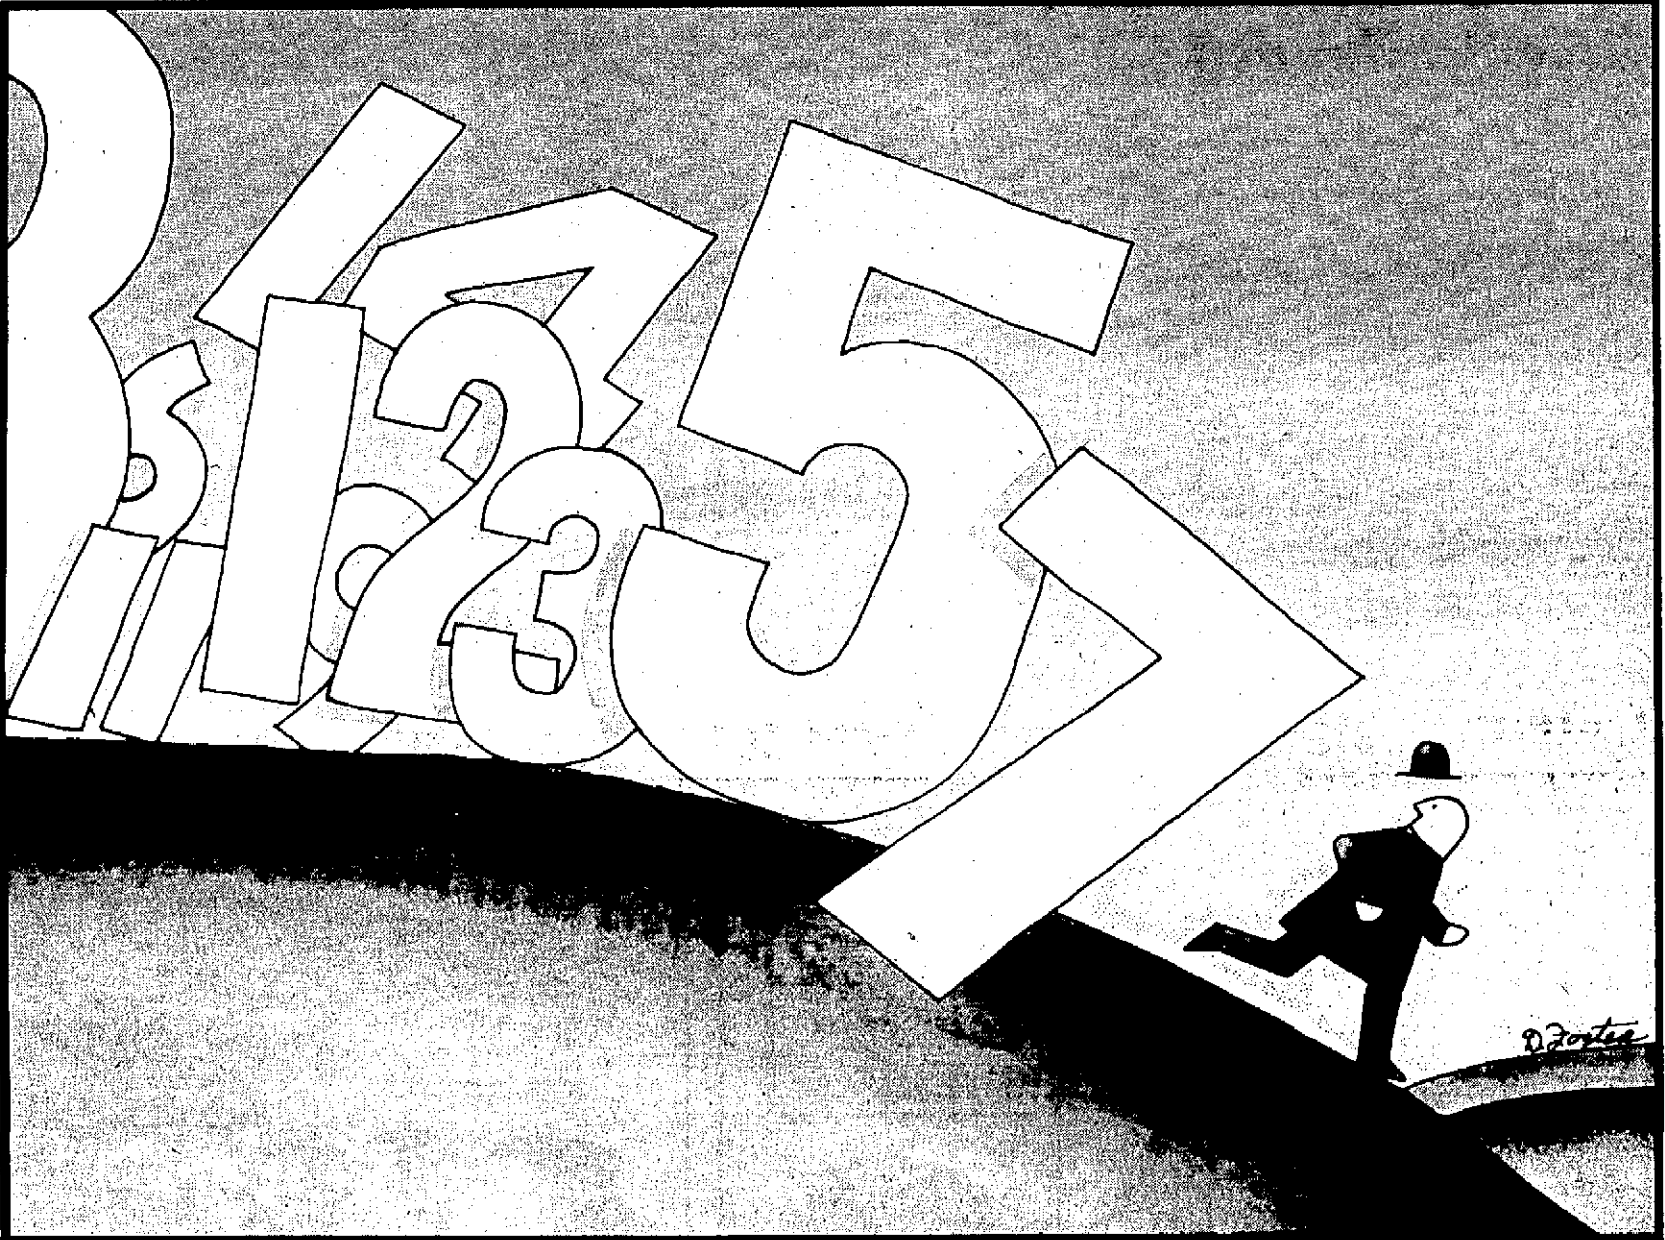

In West Bloomfield, teachers, board members and district residents argued during a heated public meeting Monday.

"Your attempt to make a name for yourself at our children's expense is despicable and irresponsible," one of several angry parents told the board during the meeting.

A number of parents vowed to keep their children home from school if West Bloomfield board members decided to fire the striking teachers.

Strikes also continued at Flint, Highland Park, Bay City and Davison.

There's more to choosing a low-tar cigarette than just picking a number.

Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."

As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar buildup flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback."

All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.

Some Of Allen's Redskins Actually Over-The-Hill

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Allen has determined that some of his Over-the-Hill Gang actually are over the hill.

Tight end Jerry Smith, a 12-year veteran, and 11-year pro Brig Owens, safety, were dropped by the Washington Redskins Monday as National Football League clubs reduced their rosters to 43 in the final cutdown before the regular season starts on Sunday.

Other veterans placed on waivers Monday included running back Jim Bertelsen and placekicker Tom Dempsey of the Los Angeles Rams, wide receiver Larry Walton, of the Detroit Lions, quarterback Steve Ramsey of the New York Giants and Alden Rache, a defensive lineman, by the Baltimore Colts.

Meantime, defensive tackle Mike McCoy, a Green Bay Packer mainstay since 1970, was dealt to the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders for Herb McMath, a reserve offensive lineman, and two future draft choices.

The departure of the 29-year-old Ramsey left the Giants with three quarterbacks — Jerry Goldstein, Joe Pisarcik and Randy Dean. None have played in an NFL regular season game. The Giants had dealt QB Craig Morton to Denver for Ramsey during the off-season, but Ramsey saw little preseason action.

The Colts just acquired Roche, 32, a seven-year veteran, from Green Bay last week, but elected not to keep him, canceling the transfer of a draft choice to the Packers.

In other trades Monday, the Denver Broncos acquired running back Jim Jensen from the Dallas Cowboys and the St. Louis Cardinals obtained middle linebacker Marv Kellem from the Pittsburgh Steelers. Dallas and Pittsburgh will receive future draft choices in exchange.

Green Bay also cut placekicker Mirro Roder, saying that Chester Marcol has recovered from his pulled muscle and is expected to start in Sunday's opener against New Orleans.

Several players were placed on the injured reserve list, which means they cannot play this season.

They included rookie defensive end Duncan McCall, Washington's top draft pick; rookie running back George Franklin of St. Louis; rookie linebacker Ron Crosby and offensive lineman Ken Lang of Detroit; rookie defensive end Greg Murphy of the New York Jets; safety Keith King, linebacker Chris Townsend and defensive end Dave Lindstrom, all rookies, of San Diego, and rookie guard Donnie Hickman of Los Angeles.

Some of the other veterans dropped were tight end Jimmie Kennedy and offensive tackle Dennis Nelson of Baltimore; linebacker Mel Rodgers of Los Angeles; linebacker Al Paley of Dallas; center Bob Patton of Buffalo and defensive end Rick Doran of the Giants.

Not all of the NFL's 28 clubs made known their final cuts Monday, holding off until today.

Baltimore today added Howard Stevens, who gained 1,000 yards returning kicks and punt returns last season, and rookie tight end Wade Griffin of Mississippi to their taxi squad and placed their No. 1 draft choice, rookie Randy Burke from Kentucky, on the injured reserve list.

Cup Showdown
Starting Today

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Armed with the confidence that comes with success, crews of the 12-meter yachts Courageous and Australia put everything on the line today in the first duel for the America's Cup.

Going into the final best-of-seven series, skipper Noel Robins of Australia had built a 13-1 record over two months of sailing against challengers from France and Sweden.

Allauna Braves' owner Ted Turner, skipper of Courageous, had a rougher trip in his bid to become the defender, but amassed a 24-8 over-all mark in three months of racing against Enterprise and Independence.

"I've raced a lot against Alan Bond's boats and I think we'll have some very interesting racing," Turner said Monday. "But whatever the outcome, I hope the races will provide for even better goodwill between the United States and Australia."

Before making that observation, however, Turner offered a line similar to those that have made him the best known and sometimes least loved skipper of the eight 12-meter yachts in Newport this summer.

"Well, since the first hat never has a chance, I'll let Mr. Bond go first," said Turner at a pre-race briefing.

"I think it's very even us far as crews, styles and equipment," said Bond, a real estate developer and moneyman behind Australia. "One of us might have a faster hull, but of course, we don't know which yet."

However, Gary Jobson, Turner's tactician and two-time sailing All-American, was more confident. "I hope for four straight," Jobson said. "We're going to work as hard as we can."

"We're going to cover when ahead and attack when behind — the same as we did all summer. We're going to get them," Jobson said.

At stake in the series is a trophy held by the New York Yacht Club since 1881 and won for the first time in 1851 by the yacht America.

The National Weather Service was forecasting winds between 15 and 25 knots out of the southwest for today's race. Australia is at her best in light winds below 10 knots and Courageous is strongest in moderate to heavy air.

Never in the Cup's 126-year history has it been won by a foreign country. However, the 1977 challenge was the stiffest ever, with three countries sending a total of five potential challengers.

Both crews have an average age of 32. Robins is 41 and Turner 38.

Each yacht has an aluminum hull. Australia is 64 feet long, weighs 58,000 pounds and carries 1,800 square feet of sail. Courageous is 66 feet long, weighs 56,000 pounds and carries 1,770 square feet of sail.

U.S. Ryder Cup
Golf Favorite

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — The United States' talent-laden team is so heavily favored it is operating under a handicap in the biennial Ryder Cup golf matches.

"We can't win," said Tom Watson, holder of the British Open, Masters and three other American titles.

"If we win," he said and faked a yawn, "it's ho-hum; that's what we are supposed to do. And if we lose, it's a complete disaster."

The Americans, sporting perhaps their strongest team ever, hold a 17-3 record with one tie in the matches against the leading professionals from Great Britain and Ireland. Since 1933, the American record is 15-1-1. And, with Watson and other newcomers Hubert Green and Lanny Wadkins expected to play major roles, the Americans are overwhelming favorites again.

"We just can't take anything for granted," Watson said. And, he said, he isn't likely to.

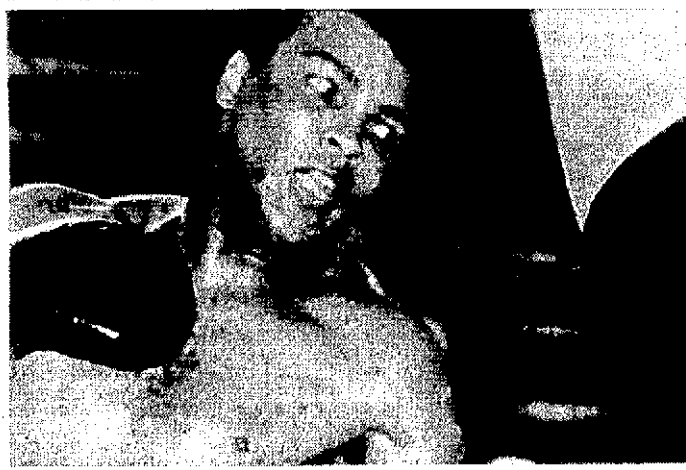

"I'm really thrilled and excited about it," he said, his freckled face breaking into a boyish smile. "I've never been on a national team before, never represented the United States. I didn't play on the (amateur) Walker Cup and I haven't ever made the World Cup. So this is something really exciting for me. I'm really looking forward to it."

His partners and opponents for the opening matches won't be known until Wednesday, when non-playing captains Dow Fisterwald of the United States and Brian Huggett of Great Britain-Ireland present their lineups to the sponsoring Royal and Ancient Golf Club.

Eight matches will be played both Thursday and Friday. Morning play will be given over to Scotch foursomes, with each two-man team playing alternate shots on the same ball. Afternoon play will be better-ball matches, with scoring based on the better ball of each two-man

Davis Keys
Cougar Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston quarterback Danny Davis, whose Midas touch propelled the Cougars into national prominence a year ago, spent the first half of Monday night's nationally televised game against UCLA looking for his magic.

Davis found the groove just as the 11th ranked Bruins lost theirs in the second half, and the swashbuckling junior quarterback whipped Houston to a pair of touchdown drives to nip the Bruins 17-13.

By game's end, Davis had gone from goal to hero and upstaged Rick Bashore, UCLA's sophomore quarterback, who had engineered the Bruins to a 13-3 halftime lead.

Kenny Hatfield booted a 34-yard field goal for Houston's first half scoring. Davis climaxed a 93-yard drive in the third quarter with a one-yard plunge and Daryl Thomas scored the winning TD with a nine-yard run with 11:03 left in the game.

Bashore and the Bruins unraveled in the second half when they drove to Houston's seven-, six- and nine-yard lines but came away empty each time. After hitting nine of 11 passes in the first half, Bashore missed his first six attempts of the second half.

Despite his decisive turnaround performance, Davis said he was disappointed.

"I haven't matured the way I thought I would," said Davis, who completed 11 of 18 passes for 147 yards and rushed for 68 yards on 18 carries. "The team played well, but I didn't play the way I should have."

Bashore, who learned only a few hours before kickoff that he would start ahead of junior

Steve Bukich, looked more like the veteran in the first half. After directing the Bruins to field goals of 36 and 31 yards by Frank Carral, he flipped a 20-yard touchdown shot to flanker Homer Butler with 15 seconds to go in the half.

The Bruins, coming off a 9-2-1 season, took a 13-3 lead and plenty of confidence into the dressing room at halftime. But it was Davis and the big-play Cougars who put it together in the second half.

"A lot of people will say we were lucky," Davis said. "We have to improve our defense. The pressure was on our defense but it showed a lot of pride. The entire team showed pride."

Kickers Will Open New Sport Building

Octoberfest First Event

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Even with an unbeaten record this season, the St. Joe Kickers are always looking for ways to improve their soccer program. And a new athletic building, which is nearing completion, should do the trick.

The new building will receive its grand opening Saturday when the Kickers begin their Octoberfest. The Octoberfest, a social event, will run the following three Saturdays (Sept. 24, Oct. 1, and Oct. 8) also.

The athletic building is the first addition since 1975 to the sports club, located on US 31-33 at Arden. The building, 100-by-100 feet, can also be used for indoor soccer, volleyball, basketball and tennis.

"This will allow the boys to practice soccer during the winter," Kickers president Ewald Lehmann says. "They can use it for conditioning and to work on fundamentals."

The building boasts a 40 by 40 foot dance floor and also has bathroom facilities and showers. The clearance at the center of the roof is 33 feet.

The facility seats more than 1,300, including the mezzanine seating capacity of 250. Among minor things still to be done to the new building is the laying of carpet in the entrance and mezzanine.

The building permit was for a cost of $67,000. But the actual construction costs were more than $100,000.

"The main thing we wanted to do by building this facility was to do something for indoor sports," Lehmann says. "We wanted to give the people something to do in the winter. We also wanted to give the public a better and more convenient Octoberfest. We used to have a tent for a portion of the festival. But by this time of the year it gets so cold."

The Kickers were formed in 1953 mainly as a group of immigrants who wanted to play soccer and have fun. But the Kickers are no longer solely immigrants. The club originally played its soccer games at the House of David field and at Dickinson Stadium.

The building foundation and steel shell was put together by Pearson Construction. Linke Construction did the cement work. Herb Lohrke the carpenter work. Willy Piontek decorated the interior and Brantley Masonary the block work.

Bob Schmeider handled the electrical work and Quality Plumbing the plumbing, with assistance from the club members.

The floor is presently cement, but will eventually be covered over with AstroTurf or a rubber-coated tennis floor covering.

Overhead lights brightly light the building for athletic events. But a special lighting system on lower beams will be used for dances and festivals.

Dave Johnson has settled an old score with Jerry Reuss — and the result is a favorable score for the Philadelphia Phillies.

"He hit me once with a pitch and cost me the home run title," Johnson says.

So Johnson reciprocated Monday night by hitting back at Reuss with his bat to lead the Phillies to a 6-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I was laying for Reuss," Johnson said, expressing great satisfaction after getting two of his three hits and a bases-loaded walk off the Pirate left-hander.

The Phillies' utilityman had to wait four years for his revenge, though.

"In 1973, after I hit my 42nd home run for Atlanta, I had a chance to lead the league," Johnson said. "Reuss, who was pitching for Houston at the time, hit me in the shoulder and I wasn't much good the last weekend of the season."

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell won the home run title in 1973 with 44 homers, getting the last one in that last week of the season.

While Johnson was getting even with Reuss, the Phillies were pulling further ahead of the Pirates in the National League East race. The victory gave Philadelphia a nine-game lead with 19 games to go and Phillies Manager Danny Ozark indicated that the Pirates were all but dead.

"We just put a shovel in the ground and started the grave," said Ozark.

It didn't look quite that grave to the usually optimistic Chuck Tanner, but the Pittsburgh manager did sound a note of resignation in the somber Pirate dressing room.

"It's not good," he said. "Winner Larry Christenson, 156, limited the Pirates to seven hits before needing ninth-inning relief from Ron Reed."

The Phillies reduced their "magic number" to 10 games. Any combination of 10 Pittsburgh losses and Philadelphia victories will clinch the Phillies' second straight East title.

Orioles Remain In Title Chase

Tigers Lose 6th Straight; White Sox Tip Twins

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox open a crucial three-game series tonight. And while they try to knock each other off they should also be warned not to forget about the Baltimore Orioles.

Earl Weaver's crew has nowhere near the hitting firepower of the Yanks and Red Sox, but the veteran Oriole skipper has blended good pitching and defense with a scrappy offense to come up with a winner.

"The Orioles got a good performance from three-time Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer Monday night and two RBI singles from part-time catcher Dave Skaggs for a 6-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays."

That left the Orioles just 2 1/2 games behind the leading Yankees in the American League East and one game behind the Red Sox.

In other AL games, Cleveland bombed Detroit 8-1, Texas nipped California 3-2 and the Chicago White Sox whipped the Minnesota Twins 7-3. Oakland and runaway West leader Kansas City scheduled a doubleheader tonight when Monday night's game was postponed because of rain after one scoreless inning.

Ironically, the Orioles have stayed close all year although it's been an off season for Palmer — at least for him. He's 10-11.

Palmer had pitched a shutout in his previous outing, and he threw eight scoreless innings Monday night before asking to be taken out because his arm stiffened.

The Blue Jays got all three of their runs in the ninth off relievers Dennis and Tipcy Martinez on Steve Stagg's two-run triple and a fielder's choice.

Paul Dade drove in three runs and Wayne Garland pitched a six-hitter to end a personal five-game losing string and Cleveland's six-game losing streak. It was the first win for Garland, 11-18, since Aug. 14, sending Detroit to its sixth straight loss.

Duck Ellis and reliever Len Barker combined on an eighth-inning as Texas outlasted California and spoiled Nolan Ryan's bid for his 20th victory.

Barker relieved Ellis in the ninth inning and allowed a two-run single by Dave Chalk. But he held on to pick up his first major league save.

Bob Coluccio and Oscar Gamble both delivered two-run singles in a five-run sixth inning to carry Chicago over Minnesota.

Jorge Orta had two RBI singles for the White Sox, who before the game announced that Manager Bob Lemon and his entire coaching staff had been rehired for the 1978 season. Reliever Dave Hamilton, 4-4, picked up the victory with 3 2/3 innings of shutout pitching.

The White Sox are eight games behind Kansas City in the West.

J&L Shell Wins
Softball Title

J&L Shell of South Haven posted a 6-1 record while winning the Fish Corners Labor Day show pitch softball tournament.

Pete Urness hit .760 for the champs, while Wayne Hazen finished at .687 and Mike Sisson at .617. Others over .500 were Stan Zech, Dave Vollrath and Ruben Moore.

The winners scored 100 runs in the tourney, including a 22-8 triumph over Court Club of Kalamazoo in the title tilt.

Krugler Paces
Lakeshore Win

Lakeshore's Brad Krugler was first in 18.56 while leading the Lakers to a season-opening 26-31 home Blossomland cross country victory over Brandywine Monday.

Lakeshore also had Bill Wright third, Rex Dickson fifth, Daye Nystuen eighth and Roy Gover ninth. Brandywine had Tim Pipke second, Oscar Reico fourth, Todd Harger sixth and Juan Reico seventh.

The Phillies reduced their "magic number" to 10 games. Any combination of 10 Pittsburgh losses and Philadelphia victories will clinch the Phillies' second straight East title.

In other National League action, the Los Angeles Dodgers moved closer to the Western title by beating the San Diego Padres 7-6 in 10 innings. Coupled with Cincinnati's 7-2 loss to the Houston Astros, the Dodgers' victory fattened their West lead over the Reds to 12 1/2 games and reduced their "magic number" to six for clinching the title.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, the New York Mets turned back the Montreal Expos 4-3, the St. Louis Cardinals outscored the Chicago Cubs 11-9 and the Atlanta Braves beat the San Francisco Giants 3-1.

Ron Cey slugged a two-run homer with two outs in the 10th inning to boost Los Angeles over San Diego.

Dusty Baker belted a grand slam home run in the sixth inning when the Dodgers scored five runs to take a 5-2 lead. But the Padres scored twice in the eighth on a two-run double by Tucker Ashford, tied the game in the ninth on Dave Winfield's run-scoring single and went on top 6-5 when Ashford scored on an infield out in the 10th.

Cesar Cedeno and Jose Cruz each walked two home runs as Houston beat Cincinnati. Cedeno, who collected four hits, also improved his stolen base total to 52 in the seventh inning when he stole second and later scored for the fourth time.

Lenny Randle cracked a two-run double in the sixth inning as New York edged Montreal. Veteran Tony Perez cracked two doubles and his 18th home run of the season and scored all three Montreal runs, including one in the eighth on Gary Carter's sacrifice fly to cut New York's lead to 4-3.

Ken Reitz pounded a two-run homer with two outs in the ninth inning, leading St. Louis over Chicago and relief ace Bruce Sutter. Reitz walloped a 390-foot blast to left-center for his 18th home run following a two-out single by Keith Hernandez after Sutter, 7-2, retired the first two batters of the inning.

The home run enabled Johnny Sutton, 1-1, to his win his first major league game and snapped a five-game losing streak for St. Louis.

Phil Niekro pitched a six-hitter and Biff Pocoroba belted a two-run homer, boosting Atlanta over San Francisco. Niekro, 0-7 at the start of the season, improved his record to 15-17 and pitched seven shutout innings before the Giants scored an unearned run in the eighth.

Wayne Falan Day Highlight Of Track Fund Drive

By JOHN VANDEN HEEDS
Sports Editor

PAW PAW — With veteran coach Wayne Falan out front, Paw Paw citizens are off and running in their drive to build a new high school track and athletic field.

They hope to raise at least $80,000 for Falan Field, which would include a football field and an eight lane track with an all-weather surface.

It's hoped that the community effort to pay tribute to Falan and to give Redskin athletes a first class facility for competition will result in the start of construction in the near future. The project committee would like to have the track ready for next spring's season because this is Falan's 30th year as a Paw Paw coach.

Most of the money is coming from weekly bingo games and individual contributions, but a highlight of the fund drive must be Wayne Falan Day, a golf and dinner-dance outing on Saturday, Sept. 17, at the Lake Coda Golf Course.

Wayne Falan Day tickets ($5 for a day of golf and $5 for the dinner-dance) are available from local merchants. They can also be obtained by writing Frank Walters, Route 2, Paw Paw, Mich. 49079 (Phone 657-3673). Contributions should be sent to: Falan Field Fund, Box 192, Paw Paw, Mich. 49079.

Falan is a rare species in the high school coaching ranks. At age 50, Falan is still full of vim and vigor, while most of his former colleagues long ago gave up the long hours and headaches that combining coaching and teaching entails.

"I like to think I'm running to practice and walking away from it," declares Falan, who was a teacher, athletic director and head coach in football, basketball, track and baseball when he came to Paw Paw 30 years ago. "I've always enjoyed it. It's been my one grand experience. I feel very young, and as long as I feel that way, I'm going to do the thing I like to do best."

Falan, who currently coaches cross country and track, has an illustrious career behind him. His 1956 football team went undefeated and his track team back in the 1960s went 66 consecutive meets without a loss, which was a state record at the time.

Falan's son, Doug, who is now the track coach at Brighton, was a member of some of those standout Redskin track teams.

Falan gave up coaching football after he cracked up his airplane at Lawton in a near-fatal accident in 1962. He also dropped basketball in 1956.

Falan, who was a high school standout at Cadillac and served as co-captain of the Western Michigan football team, naturally feels honored by Wayne Falan Day and having the athletic field named after him, but he is more concerned about the positive implications the new field will have on Paw Paw athletes.

"Numbers is the key to the whole athletic situation," relates Falan. "And we will get more participation because of the immediate exposure of having the facility at the high school."

Paw Paw athletes now compete on a football field and track which is on the opposite side of town. The new facility would be built south of the tennis courts at the high school.

The Paw Paw Boosters Club is a prime mover behind the project, with Walters, its past boosters club president, serving as the chairman of the fund raising drive. But many others are involved. Bud Reed of Mottawan, a former Redskins athlete under Falan and an ex-coach at Bangor and Portage Northern, was among leaders behind the Wayne Falan Day idea. "I thought about it last year and thought it would be a good idea to work it in with the track project," states Reed. "Wayne has been a big influence in my life." Much of the labor on the new facility will also be donated. Experts on concrete, plumbing, fencing, lighting, surveying and drainage and tiling will be putting their talents to work. With that kind of cooperation, the fund drive for the athletic field and track appears to be a race that the citizens of Paw Paw can't lose.

RECORD MAKER: Wayne Falan, now in his 30th year as a Paw Paw coach, stands in front of board showing track records his athletes have set. The drawing was donated by Art Roper, who also put his name on the record board a few years ago. As a tribute to Falan, the citizens of Paw-Paw plan to name a new athletic complex after the coach. And as part of the fund raising drive, they are going to hold Wayne Falan Day on Sept. 17. (Staff photo)

No. 1 Ranking Possible

Bo Is Never Satisfied

DETROIT (AP) — For the coach of a college football team that could very well be ranked No. 1 in the nation this week, Bo Schembechler of Michigan sure seems disappointed.

"We're not where we ought to be. We have a lot of work to do," he said Monday at the first of his weekly news conferences.

The Wolverines opened their season on the road Saturday at Big Ten rival Illinois, where Gary Moeller — Schembechler's top assistant last year — took over as head coach. Michigan, ranked second to Oklahoma in the Associated Press preseason poll of writers and broadcasters, crushed the Illini 37-9.

Oklahoma, meanwhile, barely beat Vanderbilt 25-23 and third-ranked Notre Dame struggled to defeat Pittsburgh 19-9.

Anyone who knows Schembechler knows it takes a lot to make him satisfied with his team. He doesn't look at how badly the Wolverines outpointed an opponent, but simply at whether they performed up to his specifications.

He wasn't satisfied in the offensive line play and the specialty teams against Illinois and demands improvement for Saturday's non-conference home opener against Duke.

Against Illinois, "Our line blocking was not good," Schembechler insisted.

"Look at the mistakes in our kicking game," he complained. "That hurts you."

If the line blocking was so poor, how was Michigan able to rush for 350 yards in 63 carries, an average of 5.56 a try?

"Our backs blocked pretty well," he said. "Russell Davis was the champion of the week for blocking and thick blocked well. The wide guys did a good job, too."

Besides his blocking, fullback Davis rushed for 88 yards in 18 carries. And "Huck," tailback Harlin Huckleby, topped all runners with 129 yards rushing in 24 tries.

Schembechler didn't like the fact that Greg Willner missed an extra point kick. Last year Bob Wood, who has been graduated, didn't miss in 55 point-after tries in the regular season — although he had one blocked.

Also, Schembechler said a 24-yard kickoff return by Illinois was longer than any against the Wolverines all last year.

Mike Harden's fair catch calls on a couple of punts when there was room to run also bothered Schembechler.

"In defense of Mike Harden, he was out of practice a week," Schembechler said, "but he's going to be a heck of a return guy."

Joining Davis as a team "champion of the week" is defensive back Mike Jolly. He recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass.

"Hustlers" of the week were wingback Max Richardson on offense and linebacker Ron Shupkins on defense. Wingback Mike Smith was the week's top scout team player, while the Michigan coaches named safety Stu Harris the "rookie of the week."

MSU's Leaky Secondary Will Face Stiffer Test

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It's back to school for Michigan State's defensive backfield this week, as the secondary crams for a Saturday exam with Washington State and its rifle-armed quarterback Jack Thompson.

Studying the sobering game films of the Cougars' 19-10 upset of Nebraska; the Spartan defense will try to shore up the leaky pass coverage that nearly cost them a game last week.

MSU narrowly escaped Purdue's aerial blitz Saturday with a 19-14 victory, and by all reports worse is yet to come at the hands of Thompson — whom MSU coach Darryl Rogers calls the finest quarterback in the country.

Rogers had little criticism for his secondary Monday, despite Purdue's 302 yards through the air.

"We were geared up to stop the air option," Rogers said. "We weren't geared up to stop 45 passes. It is hard to adjust quickly this early in the year."

The Spartan defenders had to give up lots of short completions to prevent against the long one, he pointed out, and were only burned once on a deep pass play.

And, he said, the linebackers were not dropping back to help out in pass coverage like they should. That left cornerbacks Jerome Stanton and Alan Davis with tough one-on-one coverage.

"We need to work very hard in the defensive secondary and on the coverages," Rogers said. But he plans no lineup changes. "We can play the same people and be a lot better off. Our very young secondary was tested and beaten only once on long passes."

But it apparently will get an acid test Saturday. After hitting just one of his first six passes last week, Thompson hit 17 of his next 24 for two touchdowns as Washington State upset Nebraska 19-10.

Last year he set several school and Pacific-8 conference records in completing 208 of 335 passes for 21 touchdowns.

"Thompson is probably the best college quarterback in the nation today," Rogers said. "He's a pro-type quarterback with an exceptionally strong arm. If you put a hard rush on him, he's excellent at dumping the ball off. There's really not much you can do."

Rogers gave adequate or better marks to his entire team, singling out fullback Jim Farley and several front-line defensive players for praise.

Junior college transfer Leroy McGee "showed flashes of being a very good" tailback, he said, "but he has a long way to go."

Rogers also revealed the Spartans have lost starting guard Jim Seiarini for the year with a knee injury suffered in Saturday's game. Senior Jim Thomas and sophomore Rod Strata will share the position.

Bill Kilmer, 38, is back at quarterback for his 16th NFL season. He will be hard-pressed by Joe Theismann.

The Redskins have excellent pass catchers in tight ends Jean Fugett and Jerry Smith, and wide receivers Frank Grant, Roy Jefferson and punny Charley Taylor, returning after a year's absence because of a shoulder injury.

Washington has some quessidelined with a back injury and linebacker Chris Hanburger out with an appendectomy.

St. Louis has its same explosive offense from 1976, but it has had problems in the preseason.

However, Landry says, "The Cardinals are just playing possum. They'll be there when it counts. Any team with Jim Hart at quarterback, Mel Gray at wide receiver and Terry Metcalf at running back is a dangerous one, indeed."

The Cardinals' big problem is a defense which gave up 282 yards per game last year. If Coach Don Coryell can get improvement from his secondary, St. Louis could win the title.

McVay, who took over with seven games remaining last year and guided the Giants to three victories, traded quarterback Craig Morton to Denver for Steve Ramsey. Morton still is with the Broncos, but Ramsey has been cut by the Giants, and New York is going with youngsters Joe Pisarcik and Jerry Golsteyn.

The defense needs help. Giants opponents averaged 157.4 yards per game rushing last year. That was why Gary Jeter of Southern California was a first-round pick, to help solidify a line that includes incumbent ends Jack Gregory and George Martin.

Vermell has a new quarterback at Philadelphia in Ron Jaworski, obtained from the Los Angeles Rams for tight end Charles Young. Also, Roman Gabriel is back after missing most of 1976 with a knee injury. He needs just 571 passing yards to reach 30,000 in his career.

Defensively, only Seattle gave up more yards than the Eagles in the NFC last year.

The NFC East should be another battle among the Cowboys, Redskins and Cardinals. The Giants and Eagles don't figure as contenders.

Valley (182), Dowagiac (187) and Brandywine (206).

After two jamborees, Buchanan leads for the overall championship, followed by Cassopolis, Lakeshore, Coloma, Edwardsburg and River Valley. Dowagiac and Brandywine share the bottom spots.

Following Elchier in individual results Monday were Coloma's Dan Roblison, Buchanan's Chris Moulds, Cassopolis' Jim Loupee and Cassopolis' Jim Willard, all with 38.5. Lakeshore Mike Fisher earned a 40, Cass' Ron Haggin carded 41 and 42s were added by Buchanan's Greg Zeug, Buchanan's Mark Hamilton, Cass' Tom Lowe and Lakeshore's Bob Geisick.

MICHIGAN FRUIT CANNERS

Fennville Will Get New Plant

FENNVILLE — An $870,000 Michigan Fruit Canners, Inc., warehouse and production center appeared slated for this city today following city commission action last night.

The commission scheduled a public hearing for Sept. 26, on the firm's request to designate the site as an industrial development district. The designation is the first step for the firm to get a property tax reduction on the center for 12 years.

Ronald Prentice, the firm's vice president, said this morning that the commission's decision to go along with the property tax reduction proposal was the deciding factor.

One main reason for seeking the Fennville site, Prentice said, was the availability of rail service at the site along Wilson street.

In a letter to the commission, the firm had indicated sites in two other southwest Michigan communities had also been under consideration.

The Wilson street site is just south of the firm's existing plant here.

State law permits a 50 per cent tax reduction on the new plant for 12 years if both the city and state tax commission agree to it.

In other action, the commission elected Commissioner James Clarey as mayor.

McCracken.

Commissioner Charles Har was elected to take Clarey's spot as mayor pro tem.

The county health department sanitary engineer William Hinze told the commission he will investigate the land surrounding the present city-operated landfill for suitability of landfill expansion.

Estimates had earlier been made that the present dumpsite would run out of usable space early this fall.

Hinze said that test hole borings indicated adjacent property might be suitable.

The commission has invited a representative from the Allegan sheriff's department to attend the Sept. 26 commission meeting to go over details of the proposed sheriff's patrol which would be headquartered in Fennville.

Mayor Clarey said that a decision has not been made as to what city facilities might be needed by the two patrol units and that if radios and garaging space were to be furnished by the city he felt that should more than cover the $750 requested by the sheriff's department as Fennville's share in the venture.

Allegan county officials are considering an expanded sheriff's department, with several substations, including one in Fennville, to be located in various parts of the county.

In other police matters, Clarey directed newly appointed Commissioner Karen Barnes to have the police committee begin screening applicants for the city patrolman's position.

Clarey said prompt action is needed because he has received several requests from merchants that the city hire a full-time policeman.

Local store owners are reporting an increase in vandalism.

Engineer Donald Ratekin reported that work on 58th street resurfacing was progressing well and that the storm sewer project on 58th street south would be started.

Elected Fennville mayor

New Fennville School Budget Is $2.5 Million

FENNVILLE — The Fennville school board last night adopted a 1977-78 budget of $2,500,999, up about six per cent from a 1976-77 budget of $2,350,429.

Supt. James Tackmann said projected revenues of $2,572,877 should leave the district with a year-end balance of about $72,000.

But he warned that the surplus could be eaten away if the district does not get as much as state aid as anticipated because of a drop in projected student enrollment.

In other areas, Board Secretary Karen Schermer said that the board has interviewed Samuel Morehead, middle school principal, and John Lancaster, community school director as possible successors to Tackmann. Tackmann announced last month he was resigning effective Oct. 1, to take a job elsewhere.

Mrs. Schermer said that the board was taking applications through placement services from several universities and hopes to interview candidates from outside the system within the next three weeks.

The board voted to ratify contract agreements with the Teamsters union which covers 18 maintenance and custodial employees. Terms of the one-year agreement will boost custodial workers' pay from $3.40 to $3.65 hourly; lead maintenance mechanic from $4.40 to $4.75 hourly; and lead bus mechanic from $5.25 to $5.75 hourly.

Other changes in the new contract will enable the school to call in custodial workers on snow days with a later compensatory day off.

The board voted to pay the high school cheerleading sponsor $700 for the year without reopening a contract for negotiations. The teachers' union had sought to have the cheerleading sponsor's position upgraded to coincide with athletic coaching positions.

The board vote allows the sponsor to be paid $350 for full athletic events and another $350 for the winter sports season instead of the previous $350 for the entire year.

The board also voted to accept the bid of Michigan Farm Bureau insurance to cover the bus fleet on a pro-rated basis from Oct. 1 until July 31, 1978, at a cost of about $4,400. The shortened contract was agreed to so that all school insurances would have a common expiration date and could be rebid together.

Dam At Paw Paw Lake Under Construction Soon

NOT COVERED: David W. Olson was left paralyzed from the shoulders down after he was accidentally shot by a fellow Sault Lake City police officer in April. If he'd died, insurance would pay his survivors $125,000, but paralysis is not covered. (AP Wirephoto)

WATERLIET — Supervisor William Gaines told the Waterliet township board last night that construction will begin as soon as possible on a semi-permanent dam to control the level of Paw Paw lake.

He said the device, ordered installed by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian Hughes, will be located on the east side of the M-140 bridge.

The sheet piling dam will be built across the outlet channel at a cost of between $8,000 and $10,000 plus $1,500 for engineering and permits. The device should be completed no later than Nov. 15, according to testimony given Aug. 25 in a Berrien Circuit court hearing.

The hearing was held to provide information sought in motions from Atty. Lee Boothby who is representing John Cannavan, 7030 Maple drive, Coloma, a Paw Paw lakefront property owner.

Cannavan was seeking information on the progress of the lake level project. The hearing was part of a civil suit in which some property owners are seeking maintenance of a minimum lake level.

In May, Hughes set a minimum level of 821.5 feet above sea level. Testimony at the Aug. 25 hearing showed the lake was 13 inches below that level.

The control device will be paid for by a special assessment on lakefront property owners.

In other areas, the township board unanimously approved paying two office workers and one part-time employee wages for holidays if they are normally scheduled to work.

Thomas Webb, Berrien county road commission engineer-manager, in a letter informed the board that Shady drive could not be closed to through traffic because of snow removal difficulties. He suggested that residents petition Circuit court to have the road vacated. Residents presented petitions to the township board at its Aug. 8 meeting requesting the road be closed.

Trustee Lawrence Strouse, a member of the fire and ambulance board, reported the department has had 50 fire calls this year, including four during August. A total of 15 ambulance calls were answered in August.

Strouse suggested a meeting with city officials to discuss applying for a federal grant under HUD which would pay for a needed 36 by 36 foot addition to the fire station. No date was set for the meeting.

The board accepted the resignation of Arthur Lee from the Paw Paw Lake Joint Sewer board.

Herbert Cotton of the Senior Citizens center, Coloma, announced the center would begin mixed league bowling on Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 1 p.m. at the new Coloma Lakes for people 50 and over residing in the Coloma-Waterliet area.

Bridgman Board Approves New Open Meetings Policy

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman school board last night approved changes in policies relating to open meetings and public participation in board meetings.

The board action came as the result of recommendations from its attorney, Robert Thrun, to bring board policy in line with the state open meetings law.

The new policies set aside a time period for public comment at either the beginning or the end of the meeting. No comments will be permitted from the audience during the meeting unless allowed by the board president.

Also included in the policy was a stipulation that complaints about students or school employees would not be discussed during public sessions. The policy included a stipulation that public comment would be limited to five minutes or longer at the discretion of the board president.

Previously the policy stipulated that matters from district residents to come before the board were to be submitted in writing prior to the board meeting.

In other action, the board voted to renew for one month an athletic policy agreement that was in effect last year. The one-month approval followed a 3 to 3 deadlock vote on extending the policy for the full 1977-78 school year.

The policy gave students the right to participate in formation of policies relating to school athletics. The board indicated it wished to study the policy further before taking action to extend it.

In the vote board members voting to extend the policy for the entire year were Lewis Matthias, Joseph Lozon and Dr. Joseph Rambo. Voting against the extension were Dr. Kenneth Kieft, Dale Smith and John Wilk. Robert Roth was absent.

Action on the school audit report from Raymond Roberts, Berrien Springs, the school's auditing firm, was tabled until board members are given a copy of the summary to study.

The board approved retaining membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association for the 1977-78 school year.

Hartford Hires School Principal

HARTFORD — Thomas Smusz, 38, was formally hired as principal of Red Arrow elementary school here last night by the Hartford school board.

Smusz, formerly a principal in a K-8 school in Nottawa, Mich., had been offered the post at Hartford last month. His salary under the one-year contract will be $20,000. He is married and the father of two sons.

Smusz replaces Gene Snyder who is on a leave of absence.

In other areas, the board approved seeking bids for two new school buses, a 78-passenger transit model, and a conventional 66-passenger model. Bids will be opened at the Sept. 26 meeting. Two old 66-passenger buses will be retired.

The board tabled a request from the Hartford Education Association seeking teacher passes for all extra-curricular school activities and functions.

Richard Piffer was hired as varsity girls' basketball coach and Steve VanderMolen as girls' junior varsity basketball coach.

The board approved the same crossing guard program in conjunction with the city as was instituted last year.

The board entered into agreement with the 1st Agency of Kalamazoo for student insurance for the 1977-78 school year at a cost of $1.91 per student.

Mrs. Joyce Brimhall announced the ad hoc disciplinary law force will meet on alternate Tuesdays, starting Sept. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the middle school learning center. She is chairman of the committee.

Future Cemetery Area Drainage Plan Outlined

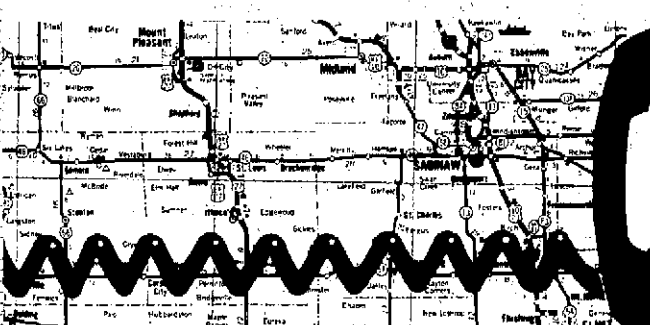

THREE OAKS — Leslie Halney, district conservationist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS), reviewed plans for drainage of approximately four acres of land at the north side of Forest Lawn cemetery during last night's meeting of the Three Oaks Township board.

The land, which is owned by the township, will be divided into cemetery lots when the land development is completed.

The cost of installing the drainage tile has been estimated at $8,000, most of which will be funded through a SCS grant. The township is to pay some $2,000 of the cost for labor.

In other areas, the board learned that rates for using Chikaming township's radio station to dispatch fire, police and ambulance calls has been increased $100 a year by Chikaming township. The township will now pay $250 a year. Chikaming township officials reported the increase was due to increased operating costs, the board was informed.

Chrysler May Convert Big Car Plant To Vans

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. will convert its aging Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit from car production to van assembly starting next summer, a business newspaper reported Monday.

The Jefferson Avenue plant is used now to produce full-sized Chrysler New Yorkers and Newports, which will be downsized at the end of the 1978 model run.

Chrysler officials had no comment on the report in American Metal Market's editions.

The Jefferson Avenue plant, which Chrysler purchased in 1925, has 3,000 employees. The trade paper said Chrysler is likely to continue operating the plant indefinitely once it establishes van production and modernizes the production equipment.

American Metal Market also reported Chrysler will assemble a new line of smaller and lighter cars at the company's Lynch Road plant in Detroit. The facility is now used to produce the intermediate Plymouth Fury and Dodge Monaco lines.

Chrysler executives said the new car line will include downsized versions of the Dodge Royal Monaco, as well as the redesigned New Yorker and Newport, according to American Metal Market.

The newspaper said Chrysler is expected to continue van production at its plants in Seneca, Mo.; Warren, Mich.; and Windsor, Ont. In addition to the Detroit plant.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tonight's the night, gang, ABC finally is airing the new adult comedy that may rot your mind, topple the Republic, and the world or even bore you. I have reference to "Soap."

ABC, more jittery tonight than the floor of a Manhattan discotheque, starts "Soap" by warning that certain of its "dialogue and situations may not be suitable for all members of the family."

This may be because 8 Jean Harris' saga of two suburban tribes, the Tates and the Campbells, seeks laughs and ratings from such numbers as homosexuality, impotence, infidelity, promiscuity and the Mafia.

Advertisers definitely are worried about public reaction to this sex-crazed, $100,000-a-copy caper. ABC says tonight's opener isn't fully sponsored, but won't say who dropped out or why.

But it arrives amid much controversy — and fear by church groups that it not stopped in its laugh tracks, "Soap" will pave the way for more sex-oriented shows in prime time, when millions of kids may still be watching instead doing their homework or playing poker.

"Soap" starts at 9:30 p.m. in the East and West, an hour earlier elsewhere. ABC is letting Midwest stations, if they so choose, air it later tonight, after "Family" instead of before.

Some religious organizations, such as the National Council of Churches, are urging member churches to see the show, then express their views to the ABC stations carrying it in their cities.

This may prove hard in 14 cities — most in the South or Southwest — where ABC, with 105 outlets, says its affiliates either won't air "Soap" at all or won't show the opening chapters. Another four outlets, ABC said late last week, are "undecided."

Interestingly, those two shows had scenes that ABC, worried about affiliate worries, ordered reshot. WJZ still said no dice. I don't know how many will find a wonderful sense of humor in "Soap." But all the advance fuss about the show probably will draw a huge opening-night audience.

You can only gasp at TV's version of boldness so many times. I think tonight's "Soap" will take care of the gasping. Yawns will set in next week, and for a supposedly salacious show, that is fatal.

Heavy Turnout Predicted

Duiley, 46, head of a suburban contracting firm; and John E. Mogk, 38, a Wayne State University law professor making his second run for the mayor's job.

Humphrey Beginning Treatments

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has begun chemical treatments for an inoperable pelvic cancer tumor that was discovered during surgery a month ago.

Humphrey has been resting at his lakeside home in Waverly, west of Minneapolis, since he was discharged from University of Minnesota Hospitals Sept. 2.

Doctors hope the chemotherapy will slow the spread of the cancer in Humphrey's pelvis. The tumor found Aug. 18 was a recurrence of bladder cancer which was discovered last October.

AQUEDUCT CLOSED: Workmen remove large boulders from inside the Colorado River aqueduct near Desert Hot Springs, Calif., Monday after a desert thunderstorm Saturday night sent a wall of mud and boulders into a section of the aqueduct and knocked off a 2,500 pound hatch cover, allowing the debris to enter the canal and block off the water flow. The aqueduct supplies all the water to Southern California and will be closed down for about 5 days, according to a spokesman for the Metropolitan Water district. (AP Wirephoto)

Watervliet Fears Cut In State Aid

WATERVLIET — The Watervliet school board was told last night that the district could lose $72,000 in state aid funds this school year because of a drop in enrollment.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt reported preliminary figures showed enrollment this year at 1,531, or 110 less than last school year.

The drop would mean state aid would go down because it is based on enrollment, Gravitt said. He estimated the loss at $72,000 if the 110 figure doesn't shrink by the official "nose count" day later this month.

Gravitt said the loss of money would mean some additional budget cuts would be required because the preliminary 1977-78 budget was based on enrollment of 1,641 students. The budget totalled $2,111,700.

No possible cuts were reviewed last night.

Voters yesterday defeated a bid for an additional one-mill property tax levy for school operations which would have added a total of $64,000 in state and local funding to the school's 1977-78 budget.

In other business last night, the board adopted two resolutions to borrow a total of $109,224 for the purchase of four portable classrooms and two school buses.

The board will borrow $74,856 on a five-year note from the First National bank of Watervliet at an annual interest rate of 4.5 per cent for the classrooms. Also from the same bank, at the same interest rate for the same period, the board will borrow $34,368 for the buses. The interest rates were the lower of two bids.

The board accepted the highest of three bids for the sale of two 1968 school buses. The Bus Mart, Anderson, Ind., bought the buses for $826 each.

A tentative meeting was set for Sept. 23 to interview architectural firms on plans for the district's middle school. Gravitt said the firms would be asked for advice on alternatives for the middle school, such as renovation, repairs or new construction.

The board adopted a resolution to continue membership in the Michigan High School Athletic association. The board also voted to restrict scheduling of athletic contests to those schools who are members of the association or those who agree to abide by its rules and regulations.

A public hearing on the school's preliminary budget for 1977-78 as scheduled for Oct. 10 at the board's regular meeting.

The board set its millage rate for this year at a total of 26.556 mills, up from last year 26.496 mills. The total includes 8.176 in county allocated millage, 2.18 mills for debt retirement and 16 mills in extra voted millage.

The increase came in the debt retirement portion of the total levy.

Gravitt was authorized to attend a joint meeting of the Michigan Association of School Boards and School Administrators in Detroit, Oct. 12 to 14.

Coloma Favors Annexation Plan

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night went on record favoring annexing a little over nine acres of Coloma township property to the city.

The stand was made known after one of the two property owners, Mrs. Doris Adams, sought the city's position on the annexation question.

The commission said the property, if annexed, will be considered for rezoning to multi-family after a petition seeking the change is filed with the commission. The land is now zoned commercial.

On extending water and sewer lines, the commission noted lines are located nearby and would be extended at the developer's cost.

The larger tract is the proposed site of a $840,000 apartment development.

The request for the land to be released from Coloma township to the city was referred to the township's planning commission for study last week by the township board.

In other areas, the commission requested the contractor for a sidewalk be contacted to learn if a change could be made in the contract.

The commission seeks to eliminate one of three blocks from the project because of opposition by property owners along the block on Washington street from West street east to Paw Paw street.

In place of the work, the commission plans to have sidewalks installed along Leedy street to West street, and a small area along Center street.

Another section of the project, involving East St. Joseph street, would remain unchanged.

The commission approved extending the summer tax deadline from Sept. 15 to Sept. 30. Approximately $65,000 remains uncollected from $161,000 spread over the city.

The commission set Monday, Oct. 10, at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on rezoning the former Sergeant residence on Paw Paw street from residential to multi-family use. The request was filed by Jerry Sirk, identified as the proposed purchaser of the property.

Lloyd Miller, of the auditing firm of Crowe, Chizek and Co., South Bend, recommended the city consider a water rate study, after the city's water and sewer fund suffered a $20,000 loss last year. Miller added the city should collect enough revenue to meet its obligation for retiring bond payments.

Mrs. Barbara Carrothers and Mrs. Loula Poe volunteered to assist in planning a community Halloween party, Monday, Oct. 31. No specific times for a parade and party were set.

The commission tabled action on naming a representative to the Paw Paw Lake Improvement Board. The commissions of Watervliet and Coloma have been requested to join the board as the cities may be included in the assessment district to help defray the costs

Coloma City Police Chief Kenneth Unruh reported his officers found 14 open premises in August, and of the 14, about 10 were school buildings. Unruh said doors to the junior high have been found unlocked several times. Chief Unruh said the problem has been turned over to Marshall Badt, school board president. The commission approved selling city non-taxed gasoline to the North Berrien Senior Center for use in a new car being donated to the organization next month. The car will be used for transporting senior citizens. Mayor Glenn Randall requested the finance committee seek information regarding tax assistance for businesses in the city.

New Meeting Dates Scheduled In Hagar

The Hagar township board last night set new meeting days for its planning commission and board of appeals.

Edward Broderick, township supervisor, announced the planning commission will meet on the first Monday of each odd-numbered month, while the appeals board will meet the first Monday of each even-numbered month.

The change goes into effect immediately, said Broderick, with the appeals board meeting slated for Oct. 1, and the next planning commission meeting Nov. 7.

According to Broderick, the reduced number of yearly meetings for both boards was adopted as a result of the township's new zoning concept and to prevent any additional expenses of having the boards meeting often.

Broderick added both boards will be able to study their respective problems longer under the new meeting schedule. They had been meeting monthly previously.

In other areas, a request to consider formation of a special assessment district in the Kiser subdivision to pay the costs of installing two dusk to dawn lights in the seven lot subdivision was taken under advisement.

A large group of residents from Evergreen Lane appeared before the board complaining about the high amount of storm water in a drain there.

The board told the audience they could not do anything about the matter, but would refer the problem to the county drain commissioner's commissions office for suggestions on how the problem could be eliminated.

Watervliet Voters Reject Tax Boost

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

WATERVLIET — Watervliet school voters yesterday turned back a proposed one-mill property tax rate increase for school operating purposes in a special election here yesterday. The proposal, that would have run for one year, was defeated in an unofficial vote count of 424 to 331. The turnout for the election was about 17 per cent of the district's estimated 4,200 registered voters.

School officials prior to the election had said that should the proposal be defeated no new programs could be added to its proposed budget of $2,111,760 for 1977-78. The one-mill increase would have raised about $32,000 in local taxes and the same amount in state aid.

The Watervliet school board met last night, but took no action on the millage defeat.

School Supt. Samuel Gravitt, however, said another election would not be scheduled. "The voters have spoken," he said.

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Voters in the South Haven school district Monday approved a one-mill property tax levy for school operations by nearly a 4-to-1 margin. Unofficial totals released by school election officials showed the vote to be 478 to 139. The 614 ballots represented less than 10 per cent of the estimated 6,500 eligible voters in the district.

The board of education had sought the mill to offset an expected one-mill reduction in a non-voted portion of the district's total tax rate. The non-voted portion was granted the district by the Van Buren County Tax Allocation Board as part of a 15-mill rate spread yearly among the county, schools and townships.

The state Tax Tribunal is expected to order the 9.58-mill allocation to both South Haven and Gobles cut by a mill because added with the allocations to the other governing bodies the total exceeds the 15-mill limit. Tribunal review of the rate began after 11 townships in the county petitioned to overturn the 1977 allocation.

With the passage, the district's new rate for operations this year is to be 14.50 mills, voted and 8.58 mills non-voted. It had been 13.50 voted and 9.58 non-voted. The school board indicated in seeking passage that the non-voted mill would not be levied if by chance it is not withdrawn by the state Tribunal. The added mill, to run for three years, is to generate $150,000 in revenue the first year, $70,000 from local taxes and $80,000 from state aid.

Berrien 4-H Gives Prizes

The top achievers in the Berrien county 4-H foods program were named last night at the eleventh annual 4-H foods banquet held at Win Schuler's restaurant near Stevensville.

Jan Lentz, 17, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Lentz of Benton Harbor, was given the senior division "all achievement foods award," the top honor at the banquet.

Brenda Roberts, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roberts of Galesburg, was the senior division runner-up.

The junior division award, for ages 12 through 14, went to Cheryl Jury, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jury, Buchanan.

Pamela Boyce, 4-H program assistant, said the awards are the highest honors that can be achieved in the 4-H foods program at the county level. The honors are based on the cumulative record of achievement from each member's first year in 4-H.

Boyce said that around 180 4-H members, leaders and parents attended last night's banquet. Win Schuler's restaurant has sponsored the banquet and achievement awards since 1967.

Berrien 4-H Riders Win State Prizes

Five Berrien county 4-H horse riders won top awards at the recent 4-H horse show held at Michigan State university, according to Larry Cushman, county 4-H agent.

The five winners receiving Grand Champion ribbons in their respective divisions were: Karmin Lewandowski, 12, Buchanan, western equitation; Heidi Herrmann, 14, St. Joseph, fitting and showing; Susan Shreeve, 14, Niles, registered horse equitation; Debbie Lierley, 15, Niles, pony fitting and showing; and Heidi Hunt, 16, Stevensville, western pleasure.

Rothfuchs, 16, Buchanan, was a reserve champion winner in the pony fitting and showing category.

Cushman said that 183 classes were judged at the event, using 11 show rings simultaneously. The 12 girls representing Berrien county at the show were among 400 of the best 4-H riders in the state, he added. A total of 27 first, second and third place medals was awarded to the Berrien representatives.

Berrien Handed Grant...But Can't Use It

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The U.S. Economic Development Administration has awarded a $1.168 million grant to Berrien county government to build a south county building in Niles. Congressman Dave Stockman's office in Washington announced yesterday.

The money, however, will continue to be held up until a decision is made on a suit filed in federal district court by Benton township over how $2.77 million in federal public works grants, including Berrien county government's, should be distributed throughout Berrien county.

Meanwhile, the five Berrien governmental units involved in the suit — Benton township, Berrien county, City of Benton Harbor, Benton Harbor Area schools and Niles township — passed an extended court-ordered deadline without reaching an agreement on how the $2.77 million should be split among themselves.

Federal District Judge Noel Fox had given the five parties a five-day extension to come up with their own settlement on how to divide up the $2.77 million. The failure of the governmental units to reach a settlement means the matter goes back to Judge Fox unresolved.

"We've got the money, but we can't do anything with it," said

John Brula, Berrien county assistant prosecutor, who is representing Berrien county government in the suit. "We won't be able to do anything with the money until there's further action by the court."

Benton township in July had won a temporary restraining order blocking distribution of the $2.77 million earmarked by the EDA for all Berrien county units. Berrien county government, the City of Benton Harbor, Benton Harbor Area schools and Niles township all filed motions to become intervenors in the suit.

In August, Fox dismissed the temporary restraining order after all the parties involved agreed not to spend any of the EDA money until the suit is resolved. The temporary restraining order was dismissed at that time because the EDA has a Sept. 30 cutoff period after which no more funds will be distributed.

The battle over the federal funds began in June when Benton township filed the suit to recover a $1.195 million allocation promised by the EDA. The EDA reneged on the allocation saying it had erred in allocating the money to Benton township and said the money should go to the City of Benton Harbor.

Originally, the EDA had announced the $2.77 million in funds for Berrien county would be split among Benton township, $1.195 million, Berrien county government, $1.168 million, and Niles township, $415,000.

The EDA, however, recalculated the grants after it found it had made a mistake in turning down Benton Harbor for a grant. The EDA had turned down Benton Harbor because it had assumed Lake Michigan College, which earlier was awarded a $5 million grant, was located in the city when it actually is in Benton township.

Six Dads Face Court In Nonsupport Cases

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Failure to make any child support payments during 1977 resulted in a 90-day jail term for a Kalamazoo man yesterday.

Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White revoked a previous probation and imposed the jail sentence on James Snelling for $2,000 arrears for one child on ADC.

Berrien Friend of the Court Investigator Joseph Beckmann said Snelling's last support payment was made in December, 1976, and he had made only 15 weekly payments since the order began in March, 1975.

White also sentenced five other fathers to two years probation for non-support of their children. Edward Pas-trick, chief investigator for the friend of the court's office, reported:

John R. Shanks, of 308 South Mechanic street, Berrien Springs, was told to find work in 30 days or spend 60 days in jail for $2,553 arrears for two children not on ADC. Shanks was also ordered to sign a wage assignment of $35 weekly support plus $5 per week on the arrears.

Howard F. Post, of 2088 East Empire avenue, Benton township, was told to pay $75 towards an arrearage of $736 for one ADC child and sign a wage assignment of $6 weekly support plus $6 weekly on the arrears by Friday or spend 10 weekends in jail.

Daryl Cummings, of Union Pier, paid $240 towards an arrearage of $413 for one child not on ADC, and was ordered to pay $25 weekly support and $5 each week on the arrearage.

Marvin L. Scott, of 984 Chicago avenue, Benton township, was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $10 weekly support and $5 per week on an arrearage of $877 for one ADC child.

Willie Tibbs, of 316 Colby street, Benton Harbor, was told to sign a wage assignment of $5 weekly towards an arrearage of $400 for one child formerly on ADC. Pas-trick said Tibbs has married the mother of the child, and the money is owed to the state for the time the woman was on ADC.

Woman's Identity Still Real Mystery To Police

State police of the Benton Harbor post said this morning identification has not been made on the body of a woman found Saturday morning on the Lake Michigan shoreline in Ilagar township.

Trooper Gary Chappell said the post is awaiting a fingerprint report from the state crime laboratory at Holland. An assistant medical examiner ruled cause of death as drowning.

Meanwhile, Chappell asked anyone with knowledge of a missing woman to call the state police post. Chappell gave this description of the woman:

—White, about 55 years old, weight 150, height 5 feet 5 inches, brown hair streaked with gray, hazel eyes, no teeth or dentures, clad only in a black blouse and shoes.

Chappell said the shoes have a heel that is wide and two inches high, and the shoes are the lured type.

It is believed the body had been in the water about two weeks before being found on the beach off US-33 near Zoschke road.

Review Of Tax Assessor's Certification Is Delayed

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

ANN ARBOR — Review of a demand to have the certification of Ivan Price, Buchanan township assessor, revoked yesterday when the State Assessors board failed to meet.

George Kostishak, chairman of the board, said the meeting here was cancelled due to a lack of quorum.

Earlier this month, John LaRose, executive secretary of the board, said the Price matter could come up for review at yesterday's scheduled meeting. Fred Hankins, a township resident, has led a petition drive to revoke Price's assessor certification.

According to LaRose, the state board could order a review and/or hearing on the petition, or dismiss it.

Kostishak said the petitions could come for review at the board's October meeting. The date for that meeting has not yet been set, he added.

In the petitions, signed by some 40 township residents, it was alleged that Price is "guilty of malfeasance in the performance of his duties as Buchanan township assessor, in that assessments are not uniform and in particular are not uniform when assessments of township officials are compared to individuals not of official status."

The petitions also claimed that there was "favoritism in tax assessment costing the township deserved tax dollars," and that assessments have been "arbitrary."

Van Buren Still Seeks Identity Of Man's Body

PAW PAW — Van Buren county authorities are still seeking the identity of a man whose body was found floating in the Paw Paw river late last month.

Van Buren Sheriff Richard Stump said fingerprints of the man have been sent to Washington, D.C., in hopes the FBI may be able to identify him. Stump said no identification was turned up at the state police crime lab in Holland.

Stump said the possibility of murder has not been ruled out, but that a complete autopsy report has not been submitted as yet. Stump said the man was either hit in the face with a sharp object or he fell and struck his face on a sharp stone. The man, believed to have been white and between 45 and 60, was found nude except for shoes and socks. Caneists found the man floating in the river on Aug. 28.

Stump said the investigation into the possibility of murder has been hampered by the lack of identification. "We just have nothing to work from without knowing who he is," Stump said.

JUROR WAS 'THREATENED ...'

New Kent State Trial Ordered

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Parents of students killed and wounded in the Kent State antiwar demonstrations won a new trial in their attempt to collect $46 million. At the same time, the way again was cleared for a gymnasium annex near the site of the shootings.

"It looks like the judicial system really works," said Sarah Scheuer, whose daughter, Sandra, was one of the four students killed in the May 4, 1970, confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen.

No immediate comment was available from Gov. James Rhodes, state officials and National Guardsmen who are subject of the suit.

Meanwhile, a campus group called the May 4th Coalition said it would ask the U.S. Supreme Court today — for a third time — to halt construction of the $6 million annex. The coalition hopes to preserve the site as a historic landmark.

The 6th U.S. District Court of Appeals here sent the damage suit back to the U.S. District Court in Cleveland because a juror had been "threatened and assaulted" during the 15-week trial. The district court never questioned the threatened juror to learn what effect the incidents had on him, the three-judge appellate court said. Details of the threat have not been disclosed.

"The intrusion in this case represents an attempt to pervert our system at its very heart," Judge Pierce Lively wrote in his majority opinion. He said a hearing should have been held to determine whether the juror had been tainted by the threat and assault.

"We think it is important that the National Guard and governor have a proper accounting," said Benson Wolman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, which filed the appeal.

"This will provide opportunity for retrial on the issue that has been in the forefront for a long time — whether the guard used excessive force in its dispersing the crowd."

The panel's unanimous decision said that a new trial "should be less complicated and should present more clearly defined issues" than the trial in 1975.

The defendants may appeal the trial decision to the Supreme Court, settle the suit or prepare for a new trial, according to Steven Keller, a spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union, which brought the case to the appellate court on behalf of the wounded and survivors of the dead.

In its opinion on construction, the panel said evidence pertaining to the site was amply preserved in extensive exhibits in the district court trial record. The contractor for the annex said that work could resume by the end of the week.

Bangor Salary Wrangle Is Over

BANGOR — This city and some 17 full-time employees came to terms on a salary increase after about a two-month wrangle over terms of the increase.

The city council last night approved an across-the-board pay increase of 22 cents per hour plus a three-cent an hour increase with each one point increase in the national cost of living rate quarterly. City employees earlier had accepted the proposal in a 12 to 2 vote.

Previously employees had rejected the wage increase and a $10,000 paid life insurance policy. That life insurance package was dropped from the contract offer. Late in July employees had asked for the cost of living factor to be included in rejecting another offer.

According to Clerk Norma Sutherby, the pay increase is retroactive to July 8 and will become effective with the Sept. 15 pay period.

In other action, the council approved a parking ordinance which limits parking along Walnut street between M-43 and Cass street. Previously parking had been allowed on both sides of the street. The new ordinance limits parking to the west side in certain areas and times and to one small section the east side. The ordinance will become effective early next month.

Buchanan Phase 1 Bids Over Anticipated Costs

BUCHANAN — A special Monday, Sept. 19 meeting was set by the Buchanan city commission last night after bids on Phase 1 of the planned improvement to the downtown central business district exceeded anticipated costs.

The special session will be held at 7:30 p.m., in city hall. In April, the commission set aside $275,000 for the project, but the lowest bid submitted on the work was nearly $19,000 over that figure. Bidders and their prices were:

Michigan Building Contractors, Inc., St. Joseph, $326,800, and $284,000 less alternates; and John Yerling Concrete Co., St. Joseph, $339,040, and $283,907 less alternates.

Commissioners said they plan next Monday to discuss ways to cut back on costs of the project without cutting back on its quality. The project calls for improvement of a city parking lot off of Dewey street, including sidewalks, expansion of the lot, landscaping and opening a section of McCoy's creek, now under the parking lot pavement.

In other areas, the commission instructed city workers to clean up the lot and board up the building at the former Sausman Cleaners, North Red Bud trail, and bill the owners the expense of the work. The cleanup was approved after it was reported that attempts to contact the owners, Prescott and Mildred Nelson, Shawnee road, Berrien Springs, to do the work failed.

Purchase of a sprinkling system for use at the Russell softball field at $2,995 from Turf Services, Dowagiac, was approved. The firm was the lowest of two bidders.

Motorola of Kalamazoo was awarded a $2,304 contract for the purchase of two portable police radios. The firm was the lowest of four bidders.

The commission awarded housing rehabilitation grants totaling $16,081 under a federal community development program. The grants are all for the improvement of homes in the city.

Payment of $3,055 to the Southeast Berrien County Landfill authority as the city's share for operation of the landfill was approved.

Also last night, Richard Aalls, of the Buchanan Softball League association, presented a statue of a baseball player to the city and thanked officials for their help in operating the softball program this year.

Bangor School Tax Levy Nearly One Mill Lower

BANGOR — The Bangor school board last night adopted a 1977-78 school property tax levy that is nearly a mill lower than the 1976-77 levy.

Supt. Fred Stapp said the board adopted a total levy of 25.58 mills compared to last year's total levy of 26.53 mills.

Stapp said the reduction came in debt retirement where the board reduced last year's 3.95 mills to a five-mill levy for debt retirement this school year. The district will levy 20.58 mills for operations, the same as last year.

In a related area, preliminary figures put the 1977-78 student enrollment at 1,821, a 147-student drop from the 1976-77 school year, Stapp reported to the board.

If there is no student enrollment increase by the time the formal fourth Friday student census is taken, the enrollment drop could mean a $120,000 state school aid loss to the district, Stapp said he told the board.

He said that means there would have to be some revisions in the district's 1977-78 budget of $2,097,447 adopted by the board last month.

Stapp said that the board last night also voted to join the Michigan High School Athletic association and gave the parent-teacher organization permission to use the new gym and balcony for an Oct. 29 Halloween party for students.

Scaffold Falls; Man Dies

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 48-year-old construction worker was killed Monday while building a chimney on a private home, according to Bay County deputies. Police said Frederick Carey of Hope was laying bricks for the chimney when the scaffolding on which he was standing collapsed. Carey fell more than 20 feet to the ground and the scaffolding fell on top of him. Deputies said Carey was dead at the scene. Another worker, Carl Wisenhausen, managed to grab onto the chimney when he felt the scaffolding collapse and was not injured.

Decatur Hot Lunch Plan Low Bids Total $98,988

DECATUR — Apparent low bids for building renovations and equipment needed to set up a hot lunch program in the public schools here amounted to $98,988 last night.

The bids were opened by the school board and referred to the project architects, Guido Binda Associates, Battle Creek, for review.

Supt. Wayne Hellienga said the bids covered construction work needed for the program and food service equipment.

Apparent low bidder among eight for general construction was Holland Construction Co., St. Joseph, with a bid of $32,980. The bids ranged up to $40,800.

Apparent low bidder for food service equipment was from Stafford-Smith, Kalamazoo, for $64,988. The five bids ranged up to a high of $71,400.

Hellienga said general construction includes plumbing heating, ventilation and renovation of the area in the junior-senior high school to be used for a cafeteria. The equipment for food service includes stoves, trays and other items necessary for establishing the program.

The hot lunch program will be the first for the district and has been in the planning stages about a year.

In other areas, the board learned that an unofficial enrollment count showed a drop of 41 students from the 1976-77 school year. The count, taken in advance of the official fourth Friday count, set enrollment this year at 1,306 students.

Harold Groendyk, high school principal, said he expected the enrollment figure to increase with the fourth Friday count.

The board also approved membership in the Michigan High School Athletic association from August, 1977, to July, 1978.

Advertising for bids to remove snow from school sidewalks and parking lots was approved.

Leslie Lathan and Gerald Norton were named junior high school football coaches.

Decatur Options Land, Hires Driller For Wells

DECATUR — The Decatur village council last night agreed to hire a well driller to hire a test well on land it hopes to use for two new city water wells.

In related action, the council voted to take a one-year option on a 20-acre parcel of land to be used for wells if testing shows the water to be satisfactory.

The option was taken on land owned by Henry Mejia, Decatur, which is located on CR-352 near the east village limits. Total cost of the land is $15,500 with 10 per cent for the option. The option stipulates that the land prove acceptable for the wells.

The council signed a contract with Peerless Midwest, Inc., Granger, Ind., for a two-inch test well and two other 12-inch water wells at a total cost of $16,500. According to Clerk Harry Schmidt, should the test well show the water or soil conditions are not suitable, the firm will be paid only some $5,000 for the test well drilling.

The action is part of an overall updating of the city water system. The village was recently notified that a $975,000 loan from the federal Farmer's Home Administration had been approved for the updating. The money will be used for the two wells, a 250,000-gallon water storage tank and installation of connecting and looping pipes within the village limits.

In other areas, an ordinance setting the salary for village council members was approved. The ordinance sets the salary at $15 per regular meeting for council members and $50 per meeting for the village resident, the same salary as last year. However, the ordinance stipulates that the council members and president must attend one regular or special meeting per month to collect the salary.

The council accepted the loan bid from Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, of $8,700 for demolition of two houses, a garage and a vacant grocery store in the village. The funds for the demolition of the condemned buildings is from the HUD rehabilitation fund.

The council tabled for further study a proposal to replace substandard housing in the village with mobile homes. Leslie Cripps, Berrien Springs, the village planning consultant, told the council federal funds were available for the project. The village currently has an ordinance prohibiting mobile homes.

The council approved hiring Gerald Seifer as a part-time police officer at a salary of $5 per hour.

HARTFORD — The state treasurer's office is going to be asked to investigate a possible shortage in winter tax money collected by city officials in December, 1975. Hartford Mayor Wayne Nelson told the Hartford city council last night.

"There appears to be a shortage in the $600 range," the mayor told this newspaper this morning.

He said the state investigation request is based on a preliminary audit and the complaints of two city taxpayers who said they paid the taxes but were notified by the county treasurer's office that there was no record of such payment.

The city residents became alarmed when the county treasurer's office warned them that their properties would be put up for a tax sale unless there was payment made for the 1975 winter taxes, Nelson said.

The city residents were identified at last night's meeting as Mrs. Ralph Bell, 471 North Center street, and Mrs. Phyllis DeFord, 409 East Linden.

Their combined 1975 winter tax payments amounted to $600, city officials said last night.

It is the second time in 15 months that the state treasury department has been asked to investigate the city's books.

In June, 1976, state auditors were sent to Hartford after the city's accountant, Clinton Maki of St. Joseph, reported to state officials that he had uncovered a suspected shortage during his annual review of city books.

The treasury report alleged that some $2,330 was missing from a city fund for more than a year before most of the shortage was made up by then City Clerk Jewell Story.

The report indicated that the former city clerk, and present City Treasurer Lucille Munn were in charge of the fund which consisted of 1974 winter property taxes collected in the city.

The report did not specifically accuse either of being responsible for the shortage.

Mrs. Story and Mrs. Munn were also in office during December, 1973, when the latest alleged shortage is suspected of having occurred.

Mrs. Munn was on vacation when one of the city residents, paid her taxes at city hall and received a receipt for them, Nelson said today.

Mrs. Story and her family have moved to Florida, the mayor added.

Mrs. Story did not seek reelection to the clerk's office in November, 1976.

In other areas last night, the council invited written citizen comments within the next 30 days on a proposed 64-unit apartment development to be constructed on the Tanner property on North Center street.

The city had received a letter from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) requesting a reply from the city on the need for such a development. Construction would be financed through federal loans.

The apartment construction was initially proposed in January, 1977, by Gove Associates of Kalamazoo. The one and two bedroom apartments would be in four buildings with minimum rent at $135 monthly. Some apartments would be available for the handicapped and for the elderly who would qualify for rent subsidies.

In January, councilmen said city approval was contingent on the firm's obeying city building codes in construction.

The council also formally approved placing a proposed city charter amendment on the Nov. 8, general election ballot in which voters will again decide if the city offices of clerk, treasurer and assessor should be filled by appointment rather than election.

Klett Construction Co., Hartford, was the lowest of three bidders at $25,898 for two major street paving projects on Olds avenue and 60th street. The projects are part of the city's five-year paving plan.

The council hired Mantron Inc., Kalamazoo, to process the city's water and sewer bills beginning next month. The revised bills will be issued quarterly instead of semi-annually. Cost of the computerized service is $2,200 the first year and $1,700 each year thereafter.

The council took no action on a request from Mrs. Betty Huddleston, who operates a nursery school on South Haver street, that cars be allowed to park diagonally partially on the sidewalk in front of her school. She suggested the area be considered a loading zone to allow for the partial sidewalk parking. City ordinance does not allow for partial parking on sidewalks.

It was announced that Arthur Loomis has signed a waiver for the city to use demolition funds under the city's housing rehabilitation grant to remove a burned out building he owns on Main street.

The council instructed its clerk to send a letter to the Public Safety Commission and Chessie Systems concerning continued complaints over the condition of railroad crossings in the city.

Assistant Principal Hired For Three Oaks Schools

THREE OAKS — Paul M. McEman, 30, now a teacher in the Portland, Mich., school system, was named to serve as assistant principal of the Three Oaks elementary and middle schools last night by the River Valley school board.

Kleeman replaces Jay Medek who resigned from the position Aug. 8. He also will serve as middle school athletic director and career education director for the entire school system. He received a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in 1972 and his master's degree from MSU in 1975, majoring in elementary school administration.

His total salary for the positions will be $15,120.

He and his wife and their two young children will move here as soon as he is released from his present position.

In other areas, Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent, said enrollment, as of Monday, totaled 2,020 compared to 2,061 on last year's official enrollment day, the fourth Friday. He added the total has been going up each day since school started. The total includes 313 students at the Chikaming elementary school; 352 at the New Troy elementary and middle school; 635 at the Three Oaks elementary and middle school; and 720 at the high school.

Approved was a one-year membership agreement in the Michigan High School Athletic association. The agreement indicates the board agrees to accept the MHSAA rules and regulations as minimum standards and agrees to enforce such standards for the schools athletic program. No expense is involved in the agreement.

Dr. Williams reported briefly on the recent River Valley Community Needs survey conducted in the River Valley, New Buffalo and Bridgman school districts, stating that only 781 out of more than 2,300 survey forms handed out were completed. A more detailed report on the survey will be given by Larry Fisher, Community Education director, at the next board meeting on Sept. 26.

Today's early prices included Bethlehem Steel, off 1/4 at 21; Halliburton, up 1/4 at 37 1/2; and Exxon, unchanged at 40 1/2.

Lenders outstripped gains by 4.5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 18.70 million shares, compared with 18.10 million on Friday.

FT. SMITH, Ark. — Whirlpool Corp. announced yesterday that an agreement on a three-year wage and benefit package was reached by the corporation's Ft. Smith division and members of Allied Industrial Workers Local 370.

The contract provides for an immediate 42-cent hourly increase consisting of a 27-cent general wage increase plus a 15-cent cost of living adjustment.

In addition, the contract provides for 18 cent increases in its second and third years and unlimited cost of living increases of one cent for every 4 increase in the consumer price index.

Also included in the agreement are improvements in sickness and accident pay, pension benefits and a 12th paid holiday.

Transportation Plan
Hearing Is Slated

The Southwestern Michigan regional planning commission is sponsoring a public meeting Wednesday to discuss a comprehensive transportation plan recently completed for the Twin Cities area.

The plan, which is a compilation of several transportation studies made during the past five years, includes proposals for road construction projects, public transit systems, development of a commercial port facility, and a recommended bikeway system.

The public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the county board of commissioners chambers on the third floor of the courthouse in St. Joseph.

The plan is the result of a cooperative effort between local planning agencies and the state highway department, according to John Kowalski, transportation planner for the regional commission.

The meeting is being held to gather public comments on the plan before it is submitted to local governmental units for final approval.

Copies of a summary of the plan and a list of recommended projects are available at the Benton, St. Joseph and Lincoln township halls and the city halls of St. Joseph and Benton Har-

Florida Killer Seeks Reprieve

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Lawyers for convicted murderer John A. Spinkellink, who officially has six days to live, are seeking a reprieve from the courts.

Gov. Reubin Askew signed Spinkellink's death warrant Monday and the lawyers were to appear before Circuit Judge John Rudd today to ask for the stay and for a reversal of Spinkellink's conviction.

If the lawyers fail to stop the execution by 8:30 a.m. next Monday, Spinkellink, 28, will become the first person executed in Florida in more than 13 years and the first American executed since convicted murderer Gary Gilmore died before a Utah firing squad last January.

Spinkellink's attorneys were prepared to appeal an adverse ruling by Rudd to the U.S. Supreme Court, Florida Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin said an adverse ruling was probable.

Askew's decision was accompanied by a brief statement: "After carefully reviewing this case, I have determined that there is no basis to alter the court-imposed sentence."

Spinkellink, 28, was convicted in Tallahassee of shooting Joseph Szymankiewicz, 43, in a motel on Feb. 4, 1973. He admitted killing Szymankiewicz but claimed it was self-defense.

REDUCED 1.4 MILLS

Covert Cuts School Millage

COVERT — The Covert school board last night set the district's 1977 property tax rate at 33.08 mills, down 1.25 mills from the 1976 rate.

The levy includes nine mills for debt retirement, 8.58 non-voted mills, and 15.5 extra voted mills. Last year's levy included 9.76 mills for debt retirement, 16 mills which were voted, and the 8.58 non-voted mills.

The half-mill reduction in the voted levy was approved by voters June 13. Board members said last night that the debt retirement was lowered because of an increase in revenues expected from a higher taxable value of property in the district.

In other areas, the board adjourned into executive session for some 75 minutes to hear a grievance filed by Mrs. Paul Bryant, an elementary school secretary. Mrs. Bryant believes she should have been promoted to a higher classified secretarial position when a vacancy occurred, according to Mrs. Rose Anderson, steward for Local 586 of the Service Employees International Union, which represents Covert's non-certified employees.

The position opened up when Mrs. June Parker, the head elementary school secretary, was promoted to school system bookkeeper. Board President Donald Quinn said the board will make a decision on the grievance within the next 30 days.

Discussion about whether the board should pay Consumers Asphalt, Benton Harbor, the remaining $1,840 the company was owed for work on the high school track took up a large share of the meeting.

James Babcock, athletic director, told the board that as lines were being painted on the track, it was discovered that the surface was about nine inches smaller in width than it should have been. He said Consumers has added an additional strip of material to the track to make it the proper width, but that the new strip is not even with the original track.

The board at first voted unanimously to deny the final payment to Consumers and refer the matter to its attorneys, then later in the meeting voted 4 to 1 to make the payment.

The second vote came after Jack Kinney, president of Consumers Asphalt, told the board that his firm had done everything possible to correct the problem. He said he believed the original faults in the track to be an architectural problem.

Quinn said that while he appreciated Kinney's efforts to correct the problem, he did not believe final payment should be made until the board was completely satisfied with the work. Quinn cast the dissenting vote on the payment.

Voting in favor were Harold Bracken, Carl Grigoreit, Alice Blair, and Bernard Lucas. Jerry Fuster and the Rev. L.C. Berry were absent.

Seek New Bids In Covert Twp.

COVERT — The Covert township board last night asked two contractors to bid again on a sealed-down version of a proposed bicentennial monument after rejecting their initial bids.

The two were Dorr Construction of Dorr and Olsen Brothers of South Haven. Dorr's bid was $6,600 for the monument and Olsen's, $7,500 and they were the lowest of four received.

The board asked the two contractors to get together with the township's architect and resubmit bids on new monument specifications.

The monument is to be located in the township's bicentennial park on M-140, across from the township hall.

The board doesn't want to spend much more than $5,000 for the monument's construction, the board indicated.

In other areas, Township Police Chief Robert Kohnhofer told the board that a state police traffic survey in August showed that most cars and trucks going through the township's 35 mile per hour business district are exceeding the speed limit by nearly 20 mph.

The three-day survey was prompted by a citizen's complaint about speeders in the business district.

The board took under study Kohnhofer's recommendation that a traffic radar unit be purchased, but did vote to seek bids for the replacement of one police cruiser and to consider the replacement of a second police cruiser.

Township officials reported that construction is underway on platforms that will hold 40-cubic foot refuse containers at the township's sanitary landfill on Lake Street, west of M-140.

The board is seeking bids from refuse collectors who would empty the containers on a regular basis. Township officials said they would like to get the collection service started on a six-month trial basis next month.

There would be no charge to township residents who put garbage in the containers during the trial period, township officials said.

The board agreed to keep a house which formerly housed the administration offices and a nearby garage for storage space, after no bids were received for either building.

The board also agreed to purchase errors and omissions insurance from the Michigan Association of School Boards for $550, and accepted a high bid of $1,051 for an old school bus from the Covert Congregational church.

Rules and regulations set by the Michigan High School Athletic Association were also adopted by the board.

Gobles Proposes Tough Student Smoking Ban

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night gave first reading to a new policy which would ban smoking by students on school property.

Under the proposed policy, a student caught with any type of tobacco in his possession on school property would be automatically suspended for three days for the first violation; five days for the second; and eight days for the third.

Parents would be notified of each violation and be required to attend a conference prior to the student re-entering classes.

The recommendation was made by a board committee assigned to look into the matter of excessive smoking by students in school restrooms. The committee also recommended that bathroom doors be removed and replaced with partitions and the new policy be enforced.

In other areas, the board instructed principals they must still notify a teacher ahead of time when the principal will be visiting the teacher's class to evaluate the teacher.

Following a public hearing on the 1977-78 operating budget, the board approved a budget of $1,373,112, some $136,128 above the 1976-77 school year budget.

The district's total millage rate for the year will be 24.5

mills or 23.5 mills, according to Supt. Guy Leversee. He said the one-mill difference depends on whether the county allocation board ruling to give the school district 9.58 mills is upheld or cut to 8.58 by the state Tax Tribunal.

The Tribunal ruling would come in connection with a challenge to the overall county division of a 15-mill non-voted rate.

Supt. Leversee said the district has not received any official word on what amount the district will receive.

The district's state equalized valuation rose to $20,490,714 as compared to $17,878,418 in 1976.

Supt. Leversee reported initial enrollment figures showed elementary enrollment at 583, up 10 students, and secondary enrollment at 530, down five students.

The board also approved a contract with the Kalamazoo Valley intermediate district enrichment center, to print the school's newsletter and handbook at a cost of $1.70 per student, the same as last year.

KILLER SOUGHT: British police Monday widened their search for Mary Bell, 20, above, who escaped the day before from minimum security prison near Stoke-On-Trent. She was convicted in 1968 of manslaughter in stranglings of a 3-year-old and a 4-year-old boy "solely for the pleasure and excitement of murder." (AP Wirephoto)

GI Bill Increase Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's estimated 1.9 million military veterans would get a healthy increase in education benefits under a bill passed unanimously by the House. By a vote of 387 to 0 Monday, the House sanctioned a 6.6 per cent raise in payments to veterans getting their schooling under the GI Bill. The raise would be effective Oct. 1.

The 6.6 per cent increase is the same figure voted out by the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee. The Carter administration had advocated a 5 per cent increase. The bill would cost $344.6 million in fiscal 1978 and decline to $270.7 million for one million veterans in fiscal 1982 as Vietnam war veterans complete their education.

In a related move, the House passed legislation to deny automatic veterans benefits to men whose undesirable military discharges are upgraded under the Carter administration's program for Vietnam war veterans.
